GOOD DEED BY GRANITE CITY LIONS. Granite City Lions Club President Harley Davis presents a specially-built collapsible cane to Bert Borja, 17. The Lions sent to the Braille Institute in California for the cane.

Life rewarding for blind GC youth, 17

By MICK STRANGE

Press-Record Staff Writer

With a positive outlook, hard work and a pleasant personality, Bert Borja, 17, is doing well.

One might ask, "Why shouldn't he?" The reason he might not is that he is legally blind.

Bert has resided with his grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Storie, 1722 Chestnut St., since moving here in April. He is a junior at Granite City High School South, with some special classes at Coolidge Junior high.

Through the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) he has been working at the Boy Scout office here, the Cahokia Mound Council headquarters.

His employer, Council Executive William Monical, says, "This year, when we were approached to provide a place for a young person to work for us, we were told that Bert would be a little different because he was blind."

"He can see slightly and is able in some instances to read with the aid of very large print, glasses and a powerful magnifying glass."

"However, this is not the difference we noted from the very start. Nor is the difference the fact that he is only four foot, three inches in height. The difference is his attitude," Monical said.

"He enjoys working and being given the opportunity to work as though he were sighted. Absolutely no task is too great for him to undertake, and in most cases he finished them in record time."

"He comes in telling how nice the day is, smiles a lot and really means it."

"But, that's not all. One day, Bert asked me if it would be possible for him to join scouting."

"For some reason, it had never crossed my mind to invite him to become a scout. After he joined a troop, the next question he had was whether he could go to summer camp at Camp Sumner."

"Well, as a member of Troop 16, sponsored by the Granite City Jaycees, Bert went to Camp Sumner and, even with his handicap, he earned eight merit badges. All the scouts in Troop 16 helped him get around the camp at night."

"Lester White, his scoutmaster, tells us that Bert was a challenge because he wanted to help out everywhere."

Monical lamented, "You know, he almost missed being a scout because no one thought to ask him."

While living in California, Bert Borja was the co-star of a Lassie program.

He told the Press-Record, "A bunch of us kids went at Disneyland from our school and someone asked our teacher to pick 10 blind children for a part in a Lassie episode."

"We met with some studio men and I was lucky enough to be one of the six picked for the show."

"Then I was picked for one of the major parts. I guess you'd call it co-star. It was about blind kids who got lost in the woods and, of course, Lassie rescued us."

Bert went on to tell about living in Oregon before moving here. He worked for an educational television station on the West Coast.

"We did sort of a Sesame Street show for kindergarten kids, and I got a chance to use my puppet a lot. I cleaned film and was a 'go-for'—you know, go for this and go for that," he recalled.

He has just been presented a special collapsible white cane by the Granite City Lions to help him get around a bit better.

2nd new terminal at Tri-City Port

The Tri-City Regional Port District has completed negotiations for the development of a fertilizer storage and distribution complex for Triple T, Inc., of Vincennes, Ind.

The approximately $1.7 million complex will be constructed in the harbor area of the Tri-City Regional Port. Work is beginning immediately.

Granite City Terminals Corporation will provide river terminal services for the unloading of liquid and dry fertilizers from barges.

As a part of the agreement, the Tri-City Regional Port District will construct a 550-foot conveyor to transport material from the river to the storage area.

Also included is the construction of a public truck scale and office to serve the southern area of the local port.

Triple T, Inc., will construct 150 feet of conveyor, three domed storage buildings for dry fertilizer, and three 1,000,000-gallon tanks for liquid fertilizer solutions.

Each of the three storage buildings will be 116 feet in diameter, 50 feet high and capable of holding up to 7,500 tons.

Construction is starting, and the first shipments of fertilizer are expected in early 1978.

Bill Lannan, purchasing agent for Triple T, has been responsible for negotiating the lease agreements and will be responsible for terminal construction.

Rick Randolph will be the terminal manager for Triple T. Randolph, presently terminal manager at Mt. Vernon, Ind., will take up residence in this area.

Triple T has become in recent years a major Midwestern fertilizer sales and distribution company, with terminals in Vincennes and Mount Vernon, Ind., and Seneca, Ill.

Fertilizer will be shipped through the Tri-City Port terminal will be from foreign and domestic producers.

Imported fertilizer will originate in Russia and Canada. Distribution from Granite City will be to Northern Missouri and South and Central Illinois.

Wayne Thompson, president of Triple T, notes that the company also owns 11 Holiday Inns across the country, including the recently acquired Edwardsville Inn at Sunset Hill.

Thompson indicated that major renovation of the Edwardsville Holiday Inn will begin shortly.

The Tri-City Regional Port District also has under construction the $2,750,000 million Tri-City Terminal, a new river facility for grain and grain products to be completed by July 1978.

Total construction of Tri-City Port facilities could reach $5,000,000 during the next year, John N. Bellocq, board president, and Carl A. Hamt, general manager of the Tri-City Regional Port District, estimated.

Workshops at schools

By DONNA HARTWICK

Press-Record Staff Writer

In preparation for the opening of schools in the Granite City School District, the Board of Education Tuesday night approved a series of meetings and workshops for secretaries, administrators and all faculty members to be held prior to the first day of pupil attendance, Thursday, Aug. 25.

A secretaries workshop was set for 1 p.m. today and an administrator's meeting will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 12 noon tomorrow in the Board of Education offices.

Kindergarten and late registrations will be accepted on Monday at the schools where the student will attend.

The fall workshop for all faculty members is scheduled Wednesday, Aug. 24, from 9 a.m. to 3:25 p.m. at Granite City High School North.

A special informational workshop for substitute teachers will be arranged within the week. Included in the discussions will be changes in the policy report approved by the board Tuesday night.

Board members also agreed to increase the cost of student activity tickets to $7 per student ticket, to include admissions for both girls' and boys' events for

Party trend in agencies' nominations

(21st in a series on politics in Madison County)

With the trend toward more and more regional governmental agencies, and with many of the board members appointed, the criteria used by the appointing officers in making their selections has a big effect on the caliber of the agencies' policies and decisions.

At one time, there was a conscious effort to put partisan politics aside and choose "the best person" for a particular task. Now, it is primarily the "best Democrat" or "best Republican."

Harold R. Fischer, Granite City banker and a longtime member of the Tri-City Regional Port District board and the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville board of trustees, is an example of the former pattern.

Senior hot line—Supplemental income is related to current level of earnings

(Office of Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal)
We have had numerous requests regarding SSI (Supplemental Security Income). Following are the most frequently asked questions and answers, prepared by the staff of the National Senior Citizens Law Center:

Q. What is "Supplemental Security Income?"

A. "SSI is a program through which the federal government guarantees a minimum monthly income to every person who is over 65, or disabled, or blind and meets a few simple requirements."

Q. How much will the SSI pay me?

A. That depends on how much income you already have. Currently, a person with no income would receive at least $157.80.

Some states supplement these SSI payments. Not all income is counted in figuring the SSI payment or the state supplement.

Q. Where do you go to apply for SSI?

A. Go to your nearest Social Security office. If you are physically unable to travel, call and a representative will come to your home.

Q. What's the difference between Social Security and SSI?

A. Social Security payments are based on how long you worked and how much you earned. SSI is based on how much income you have now.

Social Security payments come out of a special fund set aside for those payments. SSI payments do not. They come from the general revenues of the government.

Q. Can I receive Social Security and SSI?

A. Absolutely. In fact, when counting your income under SSI, the first $20 of your Social Security payment is ignored.

However, you must file a separate application for SSI. An application for Social Security is not an application for SSI.

Q. Can I work and still get SSI?

A. Yes, the SSI program encourages you to work by ignoring more than half of what you earn in figuring your SSI payment.

Remember, if you believe you are entitled to SSI benefits and the Social Security Administration has denied your claim for these benefits, you should go to a legal service office for help.

Legal services representatives can help you enforce your rights to SSI benefits and to fair treatment from the Social Security Administration. Write or call us at Lieutenant Governor Dave O'Neal's Senior Action Centers at 160 N. LaSalle, Chicago 60601 or 9 West Old Town Mall, Springfield

Seek injunction against builder

Attorney General William J. Scott during the weekend asked the Sangamon County Circuit Court for an injunction stopping the operations of a St. Louis-based builder of steel farm buildings.

He also asked the court for an order preventing the disturbing of the assets of the firm, U.S. Continental Steel Corp., until it files a statement of financial affairs to prove it can fulfill its obligations.

Scott's complaint alleged that violations of the Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Practices Act occurred when the firm failed to complete construction of buildings, or completed construction and refused to refund down payments when customers complained of non-performance.

The Consumer Protection

Division alleged that complaints from farmers in Sangamon, Logan and Montgomery Counties indicated the firm was engaged in a pattern of "unfair practice."

Prices of contracts involved in the consumer complaints ranged from $8,000 to $33,000. The firm's operations are said to extend through Central and Southern Illinois.

A representative of the firm told Sangamon County Circuit Court Judge Simon Friedman on Friday that the firm hopes to complete its earlier contracts with proceeds from future sales. Judge Friedman granted the firm and its president, Earl Toffan, 30 days to respond to the attorney general's complaint.

Rise in Manpower jobs is projected

The Office of Manpower Development, serving Madison and Bond Counties, is submitting modifications of Title I, II and VI to the U.S. Department of Labor as part of its role in expanding local job opportunities.

Purpose of the Title I modification is to reflect full funding of $2,201,296 through Sept. 30, 1978.

Title I is the portion of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) program which seeks to provide employment and training for eligible residents of the two counties.

The actual and planned enrollment are as follows:

From Oct. 1, 1976 to June 30, 1977, classroom training prime sponsor, plant to serve 336, with 383 actually served for 113 per cent.

Vocational education, 127 planned, 76 served, 59 per cent.

On-the-job training, 22 planned, 29 actual 131 per cent. Work experience, 383 planned, 696 served, 181 per cent.

Total planned, 909; served, 1,167; 128 per cent of the plan.

Manpower Development proposes to serve the following training opportunities through Title I for the 1977-78 fiscal year.

Classroom training prime sponsor, 373; vocational education, 85; on-the-job training, 93; work experience, 435; total, 896.

The President's economic stimulus program has provided additional funding for jobs under Title II and VI for an 18-month period beginning April 1, 1977, and ending Sept. 30, 1978, to reflect full funding of $1,362,448.

Title II is the part of CETA which provides public service employment to eligible residents.

The Title VI modification reflects full funding of $3,080,398 through Sept. 30, 1978. Title VI provides transitional employment for unemployed residents in the two counties.

The complete modifications and a comparison of yearly and quarterly reports are on display at the Office of Manpower Development, 103 W. Purcell, Room 200, Edwardsville.

Comments and questions may be directed to the planning department at 692-4592. Office hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Evening real estate courses

Evening courses for area residents interested in qualifying for the Illinois real estate salesman or broker licensing examination are set for Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge, Rt. 157 and I-55, Collinsville. The courses are endorsed by the Illinois Association of Realtors and conducted by Real Estate Education Company.

Basic Real Estate Transactions, a 30-hour course, will be taught by Joe Kelleher, Edwardsville attorney. The 10-week course begins Sept. 13, and will meet on Tuesdays from 7 to 10 p.m. A home study program is offered for those unable to attend classroom sessions.

Two 15-hour courses required for completing the broker's 90-hour course requirement will begin Sept. 12. Contracts and Conveyances will meet from 6 to 8 p.m., and Advanced Real Estate Principles from 8 to 10 p.m. Both will be taught by Kelleher on Mondays for eight weeks.

Events aid Laster fund

A benefit car wash to raise funds for the family of Lonnie Laster, 15-year-old boy who has been hospitalized since he was struck by a train on March 16, will be held Saturday at the Pina Station, 1903 Edwardsville Road, from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The car wash has been planned by high school youths of both North and South High Schools, headed by Debbie Smith and Irene Steece. A car wash will cost $1.50.

The benefit is one of many that are being arranged to assist the Lonnie Laster fund for payment of hospital bills that have mounted to more than $70,000. While insurance has paid part of the costs, the debt to the boy's parents still is more than $20,000, according to the boy's grandfather, the Rev. Dowey Garner of the Church of God in Madison.

Five rooms at Parkview hit by vandals

A vandal caused extensive damage to five rooms at Parkview Elementary School, 3200 Maryville Road, reported Monday by Principal Agnes Fryntko.

Entry into the building was gained through a window in the gymnasium.

Art supplies were thrown about the art room and an obscene word was painted on the wall. Pencil sharpeners were ripped from the wall in several rooms and a clock was torn from a wall and broken.

Blue and orange colored paint covered the floor in another room and textbooks and papers were thrown into the paint.

A toilet stool was stuffed with paper, causing the water to overflow and ruin the carpeting.

Powder from a fire extinguisher was found on the basement floor, but the device was missing.

Pleads innocent of obstruction

Anne Marie Brusatti, 18, of 2211 Manley Ave., was arrested Monday noon at home on warrants charging her with obstruction of justice.

She appeared before a judge at 3:10 p.m. Monday and pleaded innocent. She was released on a $5,000 recognizance bond.

SMOOTHING IT OUT. This piece of equipment is used to smooth the already-poured concrete at the Maryville Road extension project. The machine is capable of forming a roadway 22 feet wide and eight inches thick at a rate of 300 to 400 feet per hour. The work has been started at Highway 162 in the 2.4-mile project and will take six days to reach Pontoon Road. The process will be repeated to lay the second two-lane strip of the four-lane road.

he continued to receive reappointments through all state administrations, including the 1960-68 tenure of Democratic Governor Otto Kerner.

One of those who helped change the trend was 1972-76 Governor Daniel Walker. He replaced Republicans with Democrats on many boards, reverse effort by Republican Governor James Thompson. Fischer is back on the Tri-City Port board.

Appointments and nominations are not all made at the state level, of course. Because the Quad-City area and Madison County are largely Democratic, the three municipal seats on the seven-member Port District board usually have been filled by Democrats.

A new twist has been added in the Metro-East Sanitary District, which by law must have at least two members of the minority party on its five-member board.

After Dec. 1, when the Quad-City area gains majority control, the Madison County Board chairman will, over a course of time, appoint two Democrats and a Republican and the St. Clair County Board leader will designate one Democrat and one Republican. All are subject to County Board approval.

Most state-level appointments to regional agencies do not require legislative confirmation.

The Bi-State Development Agency board, headed until recent weeks by Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler, consists of five Missourians picked by that state's governor and five Illinoisans chosen by the chief executive of this state.

The East West Gateway Coordinating Council board is more structured, consisting of Energy aid program ended

An early halt has been called to the special energy assistance program conducted by the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission to aid senior citizens and others in meeting high fuel bills caused by extremely cold weather earlier this year.

The program offered financial assistance to persons unable to meet higher utility payments resulting from the persons who occupy specific offices in the bi-state region. Madison County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer is in his second year as Gateway chairman.

There is an odd number of East-West voting members, the swing vote being cast by the Bi-State chairman, a post that alternates between Missourians and Illinoisans.

cold. The program opened July 28 and was scheduled to continue through Aug. 31.

Officials announced Wednesday, however, that no further applications will be accepted as the total claims of approved applications thus far exceed the $261,000 allotment to Madison County for such payments.

Christ Pashoff, supervisor of Venice Township which operated one of the application centers in the Quad-City area reported that the office received approximately 500 applications for financial aid, of which about 50 were approved.

He said income levels which exceeded the eligibility criteria were responsible for most of the rejections.

Fire Chief Don Parente said all of the new probationary firemen will be assigned to the No. 1 station at Madison Avenue and 23rd Street, releasing three men from that station for assignment to operation of the ambulance on three shifts at the West Granite City station.

Parente said a swing-shift emergency medical technician will also be assigned to the West Granite station to assist in ambulance operation.

Meanwhile, he said the newly appointed fireman will take the required EMT training during the probationary period.

which admission fees are charged. This is the first increase in the cost of the activity ticket since 1954, the board noted.

Adult season tickets for boys' events were approved and the sale of girls' events adult season tickets is to be studied for future implementation. Admission fees shall be charged for junior high school athletic events when part of an athletic non-conference event involving schools other than those of Granite City School District 9 are conducted, board members added.

Resignations were accepted from Henry Stricker, a ballerman at South High School who is retiring; Carla Burns, middle primary teacher at Wilson School; Annie Fowler, cafeteria worker, and Carol Ann Skinner, learning center teacher at Stallings. All are moving from the area.

A leave of absence was granted to Doris Cinar, a secretary at South High School, effective from Sept. 2 this year until Sept. 1, 1978.

Those hired for the 1977-78 school year include Frank Bakka of Belleville, as math teacher at South High School; Mrs. Nancy Bridgman, Edwardsville, home economics teacher at South; Mrs. Shirley Blasingame, 2117 Richmond Ave., learning center at Maryville; Miss Ann Berkerich, Mount Carmel, Ill., home economics at North High School; Mrs. Betty Nighthossian, teacher for socially maladjusted classes; Miss Denise Papp, Granite City, English-Spanish teacher at Prather Junior High School; and Mrs. Carol Hornbach, Granite City, as counselor at Coolidge Junior High School.

The board instructed B. J. Davis, superintendent of schools, to place a tenured teacher, who had been discharged, in a teaching position for the forthcoming school term, following a court ruling received by the board of education.

Approval also was given by the board to hire Charles Palus of Granite City as a campus monitor at North High School and to vacate the position of director of the Gifted Program and the secretarial position in that department, effective Friday, Aug. 19.

Gerald Brown, administrative assistant-personnel, submitted 31 names to be placed on the cafeteria substitute workers list which was approved during the meeting.

Pet adoption clinic Saturday at Nameoki

Kittens, pups, dogs and cats will be offered for adoption by the Association for Protection of Animals (APA) at Nameoki Village Shopping Center from 10:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. Marty Bridges, adoption supervisor, said persons interested in adopting a pet may apply at the temporary shelter, located between Gasen Drugs and The Fabric Store.

Among the cats available are two solid black females, 1 year old; a litter of five kittens, two grey striped, two black and one black and white.

A female sealpoint Siamese kitten, eight weeks; a grey striped, 10-week-old female; a mixed Siamese and tabby female, 11 months; and a 6-month-old grey and white female.

Dogs and puppies up for adoption include Cricket, a part-beagle male, 1½ years; three female puppies, a litter of pups, two brown and black males and one black and white spotted female, 9 weeks old.

A miniature collie shepherd, 3 months old, also is available for adoption upon application Saturday at the shelter, Mrs. Bridges said.

The APA, a non-profit humane organization, is continuing to seek funds to construct a permanent shelter to house animals left in its care.

A roadblock on Oct. 1 to aid the building fund was given approval Tuesday night by the City Council. The event will take place on Madison Avenue at 23rd Street.

Also planned are a book fair and white elephant sale during

Election bill on first reading

By HARRY BARNES
Press-Record Staff Writer

An ordinance setting Oct. 4 as the date of a special election in which Granite Cityans would vote on whether the city street superintendent should be elected or appointed was placed on first reading by the City Council Tuesday night.

The bill was moved to first reading stage after a motion to suspend the rules to permit final passage in Tuesday's session failed to muster enough votes. A minimum of ten votes is required to suspend the rules for final passage action during the same meeting in which the ordinance is offered.

The ordinance will be subject to action in the council's meeting Tuesday, Aug. 22, and will require only eight votes (a simple majority) to receive passage.

Presentations of the ordinance climaxed a series of developments resulting from City Council action last April in which the aldermen enacted an ordinance changing the street superintendent's position to an appointive one.

Under that ordinance, the city street superintendent, after the present term of office expires, would be appointed by the mayor with concurrence of the council.

A campaign spearheaded by Lionel Portelli, present superintendent of streets, bearing 8,400 signatures, requesting a special referendum to permit the people to vote on the issue.

The council's action changing the status of the office also was attacked by five incoming aldermen who were seated in early May, after passage of the bill changing the office to appointive status.

The measure setting the election date and providing details of conduct for the special election was presented by Alderman Roy Poulos as chairman of the Ordinance Committee. Poulos moved for a suspension of rules to permit final passage.

On a roll call vote, the suspension motion received eight votes in favor and two against, with four council members absent. Since a minimum of ten votes is required for a rules suspension, the motion was declared lost.

Poulos then moved that the ordinance be placed on first reading, an action that required a simple majority vote, or a minimum of eight votes in favor. The vote, like the one on rules suspension, was eight to two.

In both instances the negative votes were cast by Sixth Ward Aldermen Gerald Parmley and Earl Baker.

Those voting in favor of both the rules suspension and to place the bill on first reading were Aldermen Clyde Boyd, Sam Whitmer, Poulos, Charles Douglas, Fred Schuman Jr., Everett Morlen, Warren Decatur and Mrs. Margaret Nunn.

The ordinance provides that the election shall be held in the 10 precincts of Granite City from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Oct. 4.

The ballot would bear on the front side, the question: "Shall the superintendent of streets of Granite City, Ill., be an elective office?" with two boxes opposite, one marked "Yes" and the other marked

"No."

Ballots will be printed on opaque white paper of sufficient size that when folded once, the language setting forth the proposition voted upon shall appear entirely below the fold.

The ordinance provides that the city clerk is to assure the preparation of a sufficient number of ballots for the election, and shall provide all other necessary election supplies for each voting precinct.

City Clerk Robert Severns estimated yesterday that such a special election would cost about $8,000. He said five election judges will be named for each of the city's 33 precincts at a cost of $25 each.

Also involved, he said, is the cost of printing ballots, providing meals for the election judges and rentals for many of the city's polling places.

Boy hurt on carnival ride to undergo spinal surgery

George P. Mathis, 15, of 2718 Myrtle Ave., who was injured seriously July 25 in a carnival accident in Akron, Ohio, has been flown by the American Red Cross to St. Louis where he now is a patient in room 402 of Cardinal Glennon Hospital.

Mathis, son of Mrs. Sherry Mathis and the late Jimmy P. Mathis, ran away from home July 1 and went to work for a carnival in Akron, telling them he was 18 years old, it was reported.

His mother says Mathis last remembers drinking a soft drink on the midway which he feels may have been drugged, and carnival workers reported he then ran wildly through the carnival, jumped over a fence, grabbed a unit of the Scrambler ride while it was in motion and the next car hit him and dragged him for a distance.

He injured his back and was reported paralyzed from his fifth rib down. Emergency surgery was performed in

GEORGE MATHIS

Akron to relieve pressure in the spine and he was flown to St. Louis where he was picked up by a volunteer ambulance from Bob Thomas Memorial Mortuary of Granite City.

Doctors here have found the spinal cord severed, but plan spinal fusion surgery in four to six weeks in an attempt to give the boy back the use of his legs.

He will then be in a full body cast from three to six months, his mother related.

Mrs. Mathis said she is very grateful to everyone who has helped her and for the prayers and support she has received from family, friends and the residents of Granite City.

She noted cards and visitors for George will be appreciated, as will continued prayers for the success of his upcoming surgery.

THIEF CLIMBS FENCE

A thief climbed over a cyclone fence at the Farm Fresh Store, 3715 Nameoki Road, and stole 10 cases of empty quart soda bottles and one case of empty 16-ounce soda bottles, valued at $38, Lenny Scaturro reported Monday. It was the third such incident since July 27, he said.

Man finds 'unusual way' to meet a girl

A 17-year-old Lee Avenue girl was awakened during the weekend by a hand on her knee in her bedroom, at 2 a.m. She saw a man kneeling on the floor. The man assured her he did not intend to hurt her, but only wanted to meet her in an unusual way.

"This is different," he told her. He also said he wouldn't leave until he was ready.

She said she was afraid to move, but the man continued to talk to her — sometimes walking around, sometimes lying on the floor and sometimes sitting by the bed — for about two hours and 20 minutes. He made no attempt to harm or molest her, she said.

About 4:30 a.m., she jumped out of bed and ran down the stairs and outside. The man made no effort to stop her.

Based on statements made by the man in the bedroom, including where he worked, and the fact that the man had been seen previously at a neighborhood residence which turned out to be a relative's home, officers picked up a Granite City man for questioning.

The man allegedly told officers he had a desire to meet the girl for some time and he overheard her brother in a tavern tell a friend that his parents were out of town.

He then decided to go to her home to meet her, he related. The girl said she locked the front door, but there were no signs of forced entry. Her brother said the door was unlocked when he returned home.

He said he heard conversation in his sister's bedroom, but assumed she had a girlfriend spending the night, and he went to sleep.

LOFTY TASKS are performed this week by a heavy-duty helicopter for Sachs Electric Co. The helicopter was used Sunday morning to install electric towers atop the Granite City Steel hot strip line, and on Wednesday morning rooftop units were lowered onto the Nestle Co. building.

Rites for father of GC residents

Funeral services were held Aug. 12 in Lutesville, Mo., for Jacob M. Hahn, 85, of Lutesville, father of Milford and Eldon Hahn, both of Granite City.

Mr. Hahn died Wednesday, Aug. 10, at the Chaffee Memorial Hospital. He was a member of the United Methodist Church in Lutesville. Burial was in the Bollinger County Memorial Cemetery. Other survivors include his wife, Mrs. Laura Hahn; another son, Willard Hahn, and a daughter, Mrs. Junita Sampler, both of Lutesville; one sister, Mrs. Amanda Oglesby of Chicago; 15 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

Local residents who attended the funeral services were Mr. and Mrs. Milford Hahn, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hahn, Mrs. Kenneth Tanksley, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Hahn and sons, David and Roger, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hahn, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Myers, Mr. and Mrs.

Schools set policy for free milk, lower price meals; list criteria

Public school districts and parochial schools of the Quad-City area have announced their policy for free milk and free meals, or reduced price meals, for children unable to pay the full price of meals and milk served under the National School Lunch and Special Meal Program.

The policy has been adopted by Granite City School District 9, Madison School District 12 and Venice School District 3; St. Mary's School of Madison and Venice; and St. Margaret Mary, St. Elizabeth, Sacred Heart and St. Joseph Schools of Granite City.

School officials have adopted the following family size and income criteria for determining eligibility:

Family of one, income for free meals and free milk $3,830 and family income of $6,120 for reduced price meals; family of two, $5,160 and $8,050; three, $6,390 and $9,970; four, $7,610 and $11,890; five, $8,740 and $13,630; six, $9,860 and $15,380; seven, $10,890 and $16,980. Eight, $11,910 and $18,580; nine, $12,890 and $20,630; ten, $13,760 and $21,470; eleven, $14,680 and $22,890; twelve, $15,590 and $24,310. For each additional member of the family, add $910 for free meals and free milk and $1,420 for reduced price meals.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free milk and free meals or reduced price meals.

In addition, families that do not meet these criteria but have expenses such as unusually high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30 per cent of income, special education expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, or disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms are being sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principals' offices.

The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year. To discourage the possibility of misrepresentation, the application forms contain a statement above the space for signature certifying that all information furnished in the application is being made in connection with the receipt of federal funds, that school officials may, for cause, verify the information in the application, and that deliberate misrepresentation of information may subject the applicant to prosecution under applicable state and criminal statutes.

In certain cases foster children also are eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for free milk and free reduced price meals for them, the family should contact the school.

If a family member becomes unemployed or if family size changes, the family should contact the school he attends to file a new application. Such changes may make the children of the family eligible for reduced price meals, or for additional benefits such as free meals and milk if the family income falls at or below the levels shown above.

All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay. In the operation of child nutrition programs, no child will be discriminated against because of his or her race, sex, color, or national origin.

Urge quicker tax distribution

In response to suggestions made by R. C. Scheffler & Co., certified public accounting firm of Alton and Edwardsville, the Madison County Board will hold meetings with local county officials to discuss the recommendations.

The county's finance committee reported to the county board Wednesday morning that the committee intends to meet with the appropriate officials "and make a diligent effort to resolve the problems which were called to our attention. It is our intention to follow these matters and work closely with the offices concerned," the committee's report noted.

After its annual review of the county's books, the Scheffler firm made several recommendations, including stronger prosecution of persons not having paid back taxes or having taxes held in escrow accounts due to protests.

The firm noted the county does not maintain a complete fixed asset group of accounts and there is no accounting control over unpaid taxes. It also noted funds are slow coming to the county from banks which collect taxes. The firm also noted the slow distribution of the money to the taxing bodies and reducing the investment interest the county could receive. The report also suggested faster distribution of tax money once in the county's hands.

It also suggested pre-numbered receipts be used for all cash payments to any county office. Other suggestions were primarily ideas for better bookkeeping.

In other business, the board was informed that its request for funding for the third and final year of the automated court records system program has been "temporarily denied." The report blamed the denial on "disagreements between two state agencies," and said neither the courts nor the data processing department in Madison County had done anything to cause denial of the grant application. The board authorized its chairman, Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City, to appeal the grant denial to the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, the agency which distributes the grant funds.

A contract was awarded to Robert Field & Associates, architects and engineers, Collinsville, to coordinate replacement efforts of the main boiler in the Madison County Jail.

France Plumbing, Heating and Air Conditioning Co., Edwardsville, was selected as low bidder for the work at $23,416. Ten per cent of the total will be paid to the engineering firm.

and the entire Madison County Courthouse.

John Rapp III, architect, was selected to design the rehabilitation of restrooms in the courthouse for use by the handicapped. The design work is not to exceed $7,400, and Rapp is to be paid through Community Development funds.

Rapp's fee also was increased for designing the renovation of the third and fourth floors of the courthouse.

Rapp first designed a renovation project costing $371,000, the amount the county thought it was eligible to receive through a grant from the Economic Development Administration (EDA).

The county then found it was eligible to apply for $437,000 for the work and requested Rapp to expand his design to a project costing that much.

The work will be done only if the EDA approves the grant application.

A letter was read from Floyd Asher, administrator of the Madison County Nursing Home, who said he will remain after his resignation date of Sept. 9, if necessary, to assist in finding and orienting a new administrator. He is resigning to return to the trucking business. Approval was given from Manpower employees to demolish condemned homes on two lots along Route 40 in the Monks Mount Subdivision of Nameoki Township. The board also voted to advertise for bids for purchase of a backhoe tractor to demolish condemned houses.

Illini Printing Co. was awarded a $1,633 contract to print the 1977-78 Madison County school directories. Illini was the lowest among five bidders.

County contracts go to GC firms

By GARY SCHNEIDER of the Press-Record Staff
Two Granite City electrical contracting firms will benefit by a total of $24,963 from projects approved by the Madison County Board Wednesday morning.

The board awarded a contract to R. Dron Electrical Co. of Granite City totaling $23,853 to install school crossing lights on Airline Drive in Wood River Township on the lowest eligible bid. A lower bidder failed to include a performance bond in his bid, it was noted.

Rite Electric Co. of Granite City was awarded an $11,410 contract to install an emergency electrical generator in the Madison County Nursing Home.

Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer noted that the present emergency generator works well, but the state mandated that the county purchase one of a different type. An attempt will be made to sell the present generator.

Sensitive to recent criticism on past practices of purchasing goods and services for the Sheriff's Department, the board accepted new bids on gasoline, agreed to readvertise for new bids on car maintenance and repairs, and for the second month in a row held over bids for new uniforms.

Board Member Daniel Partney of Granite City and others have been critical of prices paid for some Sheriff's Department purchases.

Board Member Rodger Elbie of Wood River said that the Central Services Committee wants to readvertise for maintenance and repairs of Sheriff's Department squad cars because of "confusion on the part of both bidders and perhaps we can attract more bidders and save the county a little money."

The bids for deputies' uniforms were held over for the second month because only one member of the committee studying the bids was present, Hagnauer said.

Six bids were considered to supply gasoline for the Sheriff's Department and Piasa Motor Fuels, Inc., Alton, was selected as the low bidder.

Piasa is to supply 18,000 gallons of premium gasoline for $44.1 cents a gallon, a total of $7,932, and 150,000 gallons of lead-free gasoline for 43.75 cents per gallon, a total of $65,625.

The contract awarded to Piasa for both kinds of gasoline was $73,417.

The board agreed to seek bids for employees' health and hospitalization insurance. A consultant's recommendation on types of insurance to be sought is to be completed by the end of the month, after which bids will be sought. A contract is to be awarded by the end of October.

In other action, the board decided to readvertise for bids on reroofing and placing new gutters on the Madison County Historical Museum at Edwardsville. There were no bids received last month and it was reported that during the last rainstorms, the roof leaked, causing plaster to fall from the ceiling.

Hagnauer appointed five board members to a new negotiating committee for negotiations to be held with unions representing all county employees and the board concurred in the appointments. The negotiating committee is to be led by Herbert "Junior" Milton of Granite City. Members are William Webb of Granite City, James Heil and William Little of Alton and Wayne Bridgewater of Roxana.

Board members to protest steel imports

JOHN W. HURD JR.

Hurd named sales manager

John W. Hurd Jr., 2226 Edwards St., Granite City, has been appointed sales manager in Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's Hannibal, Mo., office at 4 Melrose Lane. The appointment was announced by Quincy District Sales Manager Maurice D. Stille.

As a sales manager, Hurd will be responsible for sales and service activities of a staff of representatives.

He joined Metropolitan Life as a sales representative in the Granite City office in October 1975. He has qualified for the company's Leaders Conference, and has completed one part of the Life Underwriters Training Council course.

A native of East St. Louis, Hurd is a graduate of East St. Louis High School. He served in the Navy from 1965 to 1969. He enjoys bowling, swimming and fishing, and the family will be attending the First Assembly of God Church in Hannibal.

Hurd and his wife, the former Marilyn Hall of Granite City, have five children: Christopher, 19, Diana, 18, Brenda, 17, Jill, 16, Deborah, 15, Cindy, 12, Elizabeth, nine, Wendy, seven, and Melanie, five.

Madison County Board members were requested during the board's regular meeting Wednesday morning to write letters to President Jimmy Carter and to their senators and representatives requesting that steel imports into the United States be limited.

William Webb of Granite City, an employee of Granite City Steel, noted GC Steel employees are being requested to write similar letters on behalf of the thousands of steelworkers now receiving unemployment checks or on public aid because of the steel imports. "It is very serious," Webb told the board.

Another board member supported Webb's statement, saying, "The county receives great many benefits because of the National Steel taxes." Granite City Steel is a subsidiary of National Steel Corp.

Homer Henke, a farmer, also suggested the letters request limitations on the import of foreign beef.

TAKE DRUM FROM TRUCK John Thyer of Bunker Hill, a driver for Yellow Freight System in Wood River, said someone stole a beat-up Pearl brand drum from the rear of his truck Monday while he was making a delivery at Earl's Discount Store, Niedringhaus Avenue and Cleveland Boulevard.

Channel 'warfare'

By LIL SQUAW
Well, I guess folks are getting tired of summer. Radio-wise, it's been dull except for the various activities put on by the area's CB clubs.
"Skip" has been rolling almost every day, much to the frustration of those who don't talk long distance. Most of those folks have pretty much turned the radio off and gone off to pursue other things. Those who do "shoot skip" have been talking all summer, to the point where it's getting boring for them.

With all these things going on with the CBers, I imagine we are in for some excitement soon. Something is gonna happen.
It happens at least once every summer, usually around this time, when folks are tuning down for fall and sitting around bored. I call it channel warfare. The time is near when the CBers in the area will be hot, tempers will flare and someone may challenge someone to a fistfight. It's something akin to Orson Welles' "War of the Worlds" radio program of some time back, with the exception that the participants of channel warfare all know each other. It's even more akin to that radio program in its silliness.

If you have a terrific sense of humor, or stay away from your "mic" while it's going on, you may even enjoy the rantings and ravings that go on.
You'll hear some great "one-liners." You'll hear grown men acting like children.
You'll hear venting of frustrations done in a way you will never hear it anywhere else.
You see, folks feel safe behind their handles. They say things that they would never say otherwise.

Did you ever wonder what the president of a large company says when he's in a mood to blow off steam? Did you ever want to tell your boss to sit on it?
Well, under the cover handles, people feel safe to say whatever they are thinking at the time. Granted sometimes it gets mean, but you always have your "off" switch.
Most of the time, if you just listen and not take anything seriously, you will laugh in spite of yourself.

People have a remarkable way about them. In the medium of CB, they tend to get rid of boredom by arguing on the air.
It's a good thing, in a way. It lets folks get their frustrations out without a direct confrontation.
Folks will really act crazy at these times. Sometimes you laugh and sometimes you get angry.
But, all things considered, if you keep your cool—and take everything you hear with several grains of salt—you will find channel warfare quite an experience.

You might even have some fun. It's all a part of CB, which is, after all, a human experience.

Catch ya later, the Lil Squaw, we're out.

City payroll to be presented in detail

A procedural change by the city clerk's office in submitting the semi-monthly payroll claims for approval was rejected by the City Council in a regular meeting Tuesday night with instructions that the payroll lists be prepared as they have in the past.
Several aldermen protested the new form which provided total payroll obligations of each city department, rather than listing the names individually of all employees in each department with the amount of their salaries.
City Clerk Robert Stevens said he had initiated the new form in an attempt to resolve "quite a few" complaints. He said his office has received from city employees who contended their "rights of privacy" were violated in listing publicly their names and their salaries in claim sheets submitted monthly to the City Council.
Alderman Fred Schuman Jr. of the Second Ward, a member of the council's Finance Committee who presented the claims and payroll for approval Tuesday night in the absence of Finance Chairman Paul Bowler of the Seventh Ward, objected to the new form and said he believed the previous method of listing each item of payroll obligation should not be abandoned.
Stevens noted that the individual payroll listings were a matter of public record and could be determined in his office by any of the aldermen.
"Some of the employees feel that the use of their names and the amount of their salaries when listed on sheets distributed up here (in the meeting) find their way into the hands of people who have no right to them," Stevens told the aldermen.

Alderman Warren Decatur of the Fourth Ward remarked that "Everything we do here is a matter of public record and is open and above board. I think the payroll listings should be left as they were."
Gerald Farmley, alderman of Ward Six, asserted that it is his opinion some of the employees don't want their names and salaries listed "so that people can't see how much overtime and sick leave payments they are getting."
Council members have been expressing increased concern over the past few months concerning mounting sick leave costs.
The payroll list submitted Tuesday night was for a total of $138,847 for the first half of August. Of the amount, $114,935 will be paid out of general funds, $18,295 out of the sewage treatment plant fund, $1,890 out of federal revenue sharing funds and $729 out of motor fuel tax funds.
To avoid blocking the issuance of salary checks, Schuman moved that the payroll for the first half of August be approved with the understanding that the detailed information as provided previously be supplied to the aldermen, and that all future payroll lists be resumed in the same form as previous listings, including the names and salaries of individual employees. Schuman's motion carried unanimously.

County to buy site for parking area

The Madison County Board Wednesday morning approved the purchase of Dippold Brothers' Grain Co., 210 West High St., Edwardsville, to be used as a county parking area.
The $22,000 purchase is to be made from Harrison B. Sluby, owner of the land and the grain building. The county is to purchase the property with community development grant funds already budgeted for that purpose.
A resolution authorizing the purchase cited traffic congestion and parking problems "to the degree that commercial and professional enterprises have left town on this account," as reason for the purchase.

It also noted construction of a new Madison County Jail will result in the elimination of about 110 parking spaces near downtown Edwardsville. Redesigning the jail from its original plan also consumed 56 planned spaces.
Herbert "Junior" Milton, a member of the county buildings committee, announced that bidding for the construction of the new county jail has been extended 14 days, to Sept. 7, because more contractors will be able to bid by that time.
Milton said some contractors informed him they would like to bid on the jail construction, but could not have their bids ready by Aug. 24.
"In the interest of having the lowest possible bid, we want as many bids as possible, so we extended the deadline to allow additional companies time to prepare their bids," Milton said.

Arrest three after accident

An accident at Pontoon and Maryville roads at 6:35 p.m. Tuesday resulted in the arrest of three Madison men a short time later in Pontoon Beach.
The collision involved an auto westbound on Pontoon Road operated by George M. Kayich, 3809 Village Lane, and a stationwagon southbound on Maryville Road, which allegedly ran through a stop sign, struck the Kayich vehicle in the right side and then left the scene.
A few minutes later, Pontoon Beach police saw a vehicle answering the description of the stationwagon at the rear of Smokey Joe's Tavern at Highway 111 and Lake Drive.
Police arrested Don W. Craig, 19, of 2132 Hildebrand Ave., Madison, driver of the vehicle, charging him with not having a driver's license, illegal transportation of alcohol and a stop sign violation.

Changed plan for machine drawing class

DT 211, Machine Drawings I, and DT 212, Machine Drawings II, which were scheduled to be taught in Granite City, will be taught in Belleville at the west Belleville Area College campus.
The classes will be held in Room Number 5118 on the same days and times as listed in the fall schedule (7-9:20 p.m. Monday and Wednesday).
These courses are advanced machine design classes for a student who has had at least one year of mechanical drawing—or someone who is presently working as a draftsman and wants to increase his machine design knowledge.

Two hurt in I-270 mishap

The driver and a passenger in his car were hospitalized at 12:40 a.m. Tuesday when their car ran off Interstate 270 one mile east of Route 111 and overturned.
Frank Bennetfield, 18, of Doylesville, Pa., was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital for scalp cuts over both ears and a large abrasion to the left side and was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital.
David K. Whitaker, 25, of Doylesville, Pa., was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital. State police said the car, driven by Bennetfield, was eastbound on I-270 when he apparently lost control and the car left the highway and overturned.

COMIN' AT YA. Granite City High School South linemen loosen up with a dummy drill at yesterday's evening practice. Physical conditioning is receiving emphasis.

Course on gun safety 'Death riders' at Speedway

A course on gun safety, designed as a father-son experience and fulfilling the requirement for anyone under 16 years of age in order to obtain a hunting license, will be taught on three consecutive Monday evenings beginning Sept. 12 at the Nameeki Recreation Center, Pontoon Road and Ames Avenue.

Qualified instructors will teach the basics of guns and their safe use in hunting and target sports.

Each night will include three hours of instruction, beginning at 7 and ending at 10. An examination will be given on the last night, Sept. 26. Certificates of achievement will be issued upon successful completion of the course.

Interested persons may register or obtain more information by calling the Granite City Park District office in Wilson Park at 877-3059. Classes will be limited to 25 persons.

There will be an added attraction this Saturday night at Tri-City Speedway in Granite City. In addition to the lineup of stock car races, the Death Riders Motorcycle Thrill Show will perform.

The Death Riders show, which will take place after the stocks have finished racing, is considered one of the nation's top motor thrill shows.

The Death Riders have been featured on ABC's Wide World of Sports, the CBS Sports Spectacular and "To Tell the Truth." They are also featured in a major motion picture this touring the country, "Death Riders."

The highlight of the Thrill Show is when members of the audience are invited to lie on the track while a motorcycle soars over their heads.

The stock cars will race at 8 Saturday night at Tri-City, with the Death Riders Show immediately following.

A green purse, containing $10 cash and miscellaneous papers, was stolen from the kitchen table at the home of Bernardino Qualls, 1655 Delmar Ave., she reported at 8:20 p.m. Tuesday.

New drug said to solve sexual disorders

(American Chemical Society) Correction of a wide variety of sexual disorders, including lack of sexual desire and impotency, has been achieved in clinical trial by several new experimental drugs, reports Chemical and Engineering News, the weekly newsmagazine of the American Chemical Society. One experimental drug restores the production of sperm in men and induces menstruation in women afflicted with a cessation of menstrual cycles. Called bromocryptine, the new drug increases sexual desire and is in clinical testing in Europe. "In some women who never had erotic feelings in their entire lives, bromocryptine increased sexual desire and led to normal sexual activity," Dr. Andrea Genazzani of the University of Siena, Italy, told C&N. The drug also has alleviated depression associated with prolonged interruption of menstruation. Women who never had experienced a cycle began menstruation within 47 to 140 days after daily administration of the drug was begun. Others whose cycles had been interrupted for as many as 12 years returned to normal in 22 days to four months. Bromocryptine alleviates sexual dysfunction by suppressing excess secretion of a pituitary hormone called prolactin that is associated with abnormally low levels of sex-related hormones such as testosterone in men, states the report. Antidepressive effects of the drug (2-bromo-alpha-ergocryptin mesylate) probably stem from its action on two neurochemicals involved in mood regulation — serotonin and dopamine. In another study, women suffering from interrupted menstruation and pituitary tumors became pregnant and bore children subsequent to bromocryptine therapy. The drug alone delayed pituitary tumor growth, whereas traditional therapy had involved surgery or irradiation to remove the tumor, followed by drugs to induce ovulation, notes the article. Four babies have been born to women with the tumors, and six others are still pregnant with no evidence of complications. Improved hormone replacement therapy in men and women may result from two other experimental drugs, continues C&N. Administered in capsule form to correct hormone deficiencies, the new drugs do not suffer from the limitations of using natural hormones, which are destroyed rapidly in the blood stream. Increased sexual activity, facial hair grown from the first time, and generally increased mental and physical activity follow administration of the male hormone supplement, testosterone undecanoate, men ranging in age from 18 to 45 years. The drug has produced no "unwanted" side effects, says C&N.

Women whose ovaries had been removed received the female hormone, estradiol decanoate. The drug restored to normal the levels of plasma estrone and estradiol, as well as prolactin and follicle-stimulating hormone. Although spokesmen for the manufacturers of the new drugs are delighted with results so far, the drugs still must pass more extensive clinical trials. Clinical testing with these drugs and bromocryptine was reported at the recent XI Acta Endocrinologica Conference in Lausanne, Switzerland. In addition to Dr. Genazzani, Dr. Domenico Forni of the University of Torino, Italy, and Torbjorn Bergh of University Hospital in Uppsala, Sweden, reported clinical studies of bromocryptine — which is currently available on prescription in West Germany and Switzerland — to treat a form of gigantism, acromegaly, and to inhibit milk production in women. Both conditions are associated with an excess of prolactin.

Phase III college building to proceed

Illinois Governor Thompson has signed a bill allocating funds for construction of Belleville Area College's Phase III. The Phase III building is designed to include classrooms and laboratories for the drafting, agriculture, horticulture, construction management and welding programs, plus a new gymnasium. Funds for Phase III include

$2.6 million in federal public works grant money, $700,000 from the state government and $89,000 in local funds, according to Belleville Area College President William Keel. The BAC building program was fourth on the state's priority list for federal funds this session. The $2.6 million was included in a capital funding appropriation approved by the legislature earlier this year. Phase III was proposed and funded three years ago. However, due to construction delays, the funding was cut by former Governor Walker.

Jo-El Shoes buys Gamm's

Elmer Wenzel and his wife Joan have announced the complete purchase of all Missouri and Illinois Gamm Shoe Stores from the Schneider Shoe Co. The former Gamm Shoe Stores, six in St. Louis and two in Illinois, including one in Granite City, will continue operations as Jo-El Shoes, Limited. Under the new corporate structure, Wenzel will be president and his wife Joan executive vice-president. Previous to the purchase, Wenzel was general manager of the Gamm Shoe Co. and has been running the corporation for the last 16 years. He started with Gamm's 19 years ago as a store manager.

Registration centers due on weekend

Three special voter registration centers will be conducted in the Quad-City area during the weekend to accept registrations from new voters, or changes in records of present voters. Deputy registrars of the county clerk's office will conduct the centers during the specified hours. This week's special centers include: Schuck's, Crossroads Plaza, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 19; First National Bank in Madison, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday, Aug. 19, and Eagle Park Improvement Association, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 20.

Mrs. Wenzel also will serve as buying consultant for the new proposed boutique departments featuring women's accessories, handbags, belts, scarves, T-shirts, body jewelry and cologne. Several new stores with radical design changes are planned for the coming year. No personnel changes are planned with the new company. The majority of employees have been working with Wenzel for a number of years. The Granite City store is at 3226 Nameoki Road.

CONRAD "BABE" CHAMPION

On Wednesday, several young Granite City men left this community for such places as Carbondale, Ill., and Springfield, Mo., to attend the college of their choice for the fall term. They were going their separate ways.

What they had done just two days earlier was to put Granite City on the Illinois American Legion baseball map once more.

But it just wasn't in the cards for Tri-City.

For the second straight year, the Post 113 players lost to the same Arlington Heights team that had put them in second place in the state last year. Tri-City lost 5-1, after winning the first game Monday 4-0 on a one-hitter by Paul Evans.

With its back to the wall, Post 113 came out of the losers' bracket in this year's Illinois state Legion baseball tournament to go into the championship contest on Monday.

Needing two straight victories over defending state champ Arlington Heights, Coach Conrad "Babe" Champion's team came out of the gate Monday with bats blazing and with outstanding pitching.

The first game of the championship series was played Monday morning at 10. Tri-City Post 113 knew what was expected. It not only had to win two straight, but it also knew that Arlington Heights had to win only one game to take the state title.

Paul Evans took things into his own hands in the first game, pitching a brilliant one-hitter while striking out 12.

He had a no-hitter going until Arlington Heights centerfielder Mike Mayerer tripped to left with one out in the eighth. Evans, however, encountered a brief wild period in the middle innings.

In the third inning, he loaded the bases with two walks and a hit-batsman but managed to get the side out without any damage being done.

From the third through the seventh inning, Evans walked six batters. He issued seven passes in all.

The scoring for Tri-City started in the second inning when, with one out, Eldon Warfield walked. John Lakin center to score Warfield from first.

In the third, Tom Hennrich was hit by a pitch leading off the inning. He played at first base until Evans scored a two-out double to left-center, scoring Hennrich.

"Paul did a super job for us all day," said Post 113 Coach Babe Champion. "With the great job he did on the mound and also with the bat, you just couldn't ask anything more of a young man than what he gave us."

Tri-City added another run in the fifth. Leading off, Randy Smith doubled and scored on a one-out base hit by Evans.

The Granite Cityans' final tally was in the sixth when Mike Smith slammed an 8-1 fastball into the seats for his second home run of the year.

In the tenth inning, Arlington Heights got two runs on two hits. Only an inning-ending double put by Tri-City prevented further scoring.

With one out and nobody on, Arlington Heights Pitcher Kevin McBride (who plays for the University of Illinois) lashed a two-strike fastball into shape, going into that final game," he said. "We had managed to save Tom Mahl to pitch for us in just such a situation as that one was."

Mahl had come up with a crucial win in the Fifth Division tournament last week against Carbondale and hadn't pitched enough in the state tourney to put himself on the "endangered pitchers" list. There is a 12-inning rule for any pitcher in the state tournament.

But there was just one thing that Champion hadn't counted on. Mahl didn't come up with quite the performance that he had against Carbondale.

Things started out relatively well for 113 in the championship game. Mahl looked like his old self through the first two innings, giving up only one hit and facing only eight batters.

In the third inning, Arlington Heights got two runs on two hits. Only an inning-ending double put by Tri-City prevented further scoring.

With one out and nobody on, Arlington Heights Pitcher Kevin McBride (who plays for the University of Illinois) lashed a two-strike fastball into right-centerfield for a single. Mike Jennings singled to score McBride and give Arlington Heights its first run of the day. There would be more.

Left-fielder Frank Desimore walked on four straight pitches to put runners at first and third with still only one out. Babe Champion was beginning to worry.

Mike Mayerer walked to load the bases. When Arlington Heights Catcher Scott Kempman walked with the bases loaded to score Jennings, the coach brought in Lakin, who got first baseman Paul Lunstedt to ground into a double play.

"I was hoping we could get at least one more inning before we went to our relievers," Champion said. "But it was just one of those things that happen."

Things didn't get any better for Tri-City. In the fourth inning, Arlington Heights came up with two more runs, both charged to Lakin.

Post 113 didn't get its first hit until the sixth, when Dan Evans led off with a single but was then picked off of first base.

The lone run for Tri-City was tallied in the seventh.

John Lakin led off the inning with a walk and scored on a bases-loaded walk to Paul Evans.

But by then, it was all over but the crying. Arlington Heights added one more run in the ninth on a single by third baseman Dennis Drollet and a triple by shortstop Dan Frase.

"I guess it all boiled down to Arlington being a little deeper pitching," said Champion. "But I take nothing away from our boys."

"When you have four high schools to draw from instead of two, plus three pitchers that have signed to play college ball, you have to be a little deeper everywhere."

But Babe wasn't making excuses. "What I'm saying isn't sour grapes, by any means."

"In fact, we knocked out their hurler Garthage College and Kevin McBride-U. of I."

With the 4-2 loss, Post 113 state tourney play. Post 113 finished the season with a record of 38-10. Babe Champion and his athletes don't have to make any excuses.

Reflections on a winning season

Babe wants regional tournament here in 1980

By PETE HAYES

"I think we did an admirable job...really almost an unbelievable one," Babe Champion said. "For a small community like ours to be second in the state two years in a row against the giants from Chicago, that's great."

The three that Champion referred to are Paul Evans, Eldon Warfield and John Lakin. These three players had a total of 11 of the 24 runs that Post 113 scored in state tournament play, and got 11 of the 24 hits and knocked in 14 of the 24 runs.

They also had between them a fielding percentage of 1.000 for the tourney. That ain't too bad. Warfield was chosen as the most valuable player in the state tournament, getting two of the team's wins on the mound, playing 44 innings at third base without an error, slamming a home run, and walking 10 times.

"It'll be hard to replace them, I know," said Champion. "We've got a great group of guys coming back."

ARLINGTON'S ONLY STATE LOSS

"But man, am I ever proud of the job these guys did," he added.

They made only four errors in the infield in six games (53 innings).

"For a bunch of teenagers under a whole lot of pressure, that's tremendous."

You never like to lose. But you've got to lose. And you've got to do all you can, and give 100 percent, it's hard to get too down about it.

Among the bright spots of this year, you don't come up with a 38-10 record without having a few bright spots.

Among the bright spots of Post 113 would have to be Monday morning's 4-0 one-hit win over Arlington Heights.

That Tri-City victory was the only loss that Arlington Heights has ever suffered in state tournament play.

REGIONAL

IN GRANITE CITY?

The state tournament next year will be held in Highland at the new facilities there. But Babe wants Granite City to get in on the action.

"We are making plans to try and get the Region Five tournament for Granite City in 1980," he said. "It would do wonders for our city...give it something to really get behind and support."

"There would be six state champions here. They would play in our hotels, eat in our restaurants, buy gas at our filling stations...and that's not even counting the fans who would come to Granite."

"We have ample facilities for play...I think it would boost our community 100 per cent," Babe Champion and his boys haven't done too badly in that respect themselves.

Advances selection of preliminary round hosts is considered necessary for the following reasons:

1) In order to allow potential participating schools the opportunity to gear for the complete playoff series, notices must be given well enough in advance to provide for a smooth administration of the 40 games over 9, in particular, and to complete the schedule to allow schools to establish game administration and travel plans, in general.

2) In order to assign officials to work the Nov. 9 and Nov. 12 games, notice must be given in advance.

3) To generate an efficient completion of pairings on the weekend of Nov. 6 and notification of participating schools by the IHSA office, preliminary groundwork must be laid.

4) Advance publication of preliminary game host notices will allow students, their parents and townspeople from potential playoff participant schools and communities the opportunity to gear for coverage of the playoff series from start to finish.

Selection of preliminary game host conferences was based on several factors. They were: To minimize travel for both the competing visiting team and its fans, consideration was given to the proximity of other conferences and independents in the geographic area. Preliminary game host conferences were generally those in a triangle involving other conferences and/or a large group of independents. Due to the nature of the selection of "at large" entrants, flexibility is regarded as a necessity.

In compliance with the terms and conditions, a second participant from an individual conference is required to be a preliminary game visitor. And because selection of the "at large" entrants will not be until the conclusion of the final weekend of the regular season, the time element is critical.

In addition, no two schools from an individual conference may be paired in opposite brackets.

In addition, the IHSA executive secretary has been granted authority by the board of directors to reassign the site of a playoff game location in the event that unusual circumstances develop. At the same time, a site other than the designated host school's home field may be used subject to approval of the board of

53 teams hope for playoffs; South one of 2 big schools competing independently

Schools have been classified and host conferences for preliminary round games have been designated as the kickoff (Sept. 9) of the 1977 season and subsequent fourth annual Illinois High School Association (IHSA) football playoff series draws near.

Teams from a record 53 schools may be eligible to participate in the post-season series.

More than a half-million (531,000) fans have witnessed playoff games in the three previous years of the series. Champions in each of five classes (based on enrollment) will be crowned Thanksgiving weekend (Nov. 25-26) on the artificial turf of Hancock Stadium on the campus of Illinois State University, Normal.

Each of the 495 conference-affiliated schools and 42 independents—schools which do not belong to an eligible conference and which meet game requirements of the terms and conditions of the series—will be deciding its own fate on the gridiron during the regular season which starts Friday, Sept. 9.

Granite City South and North and Madison High play independent schedules.

This year, there are 65 football conferences, with 13 leagues assigned to each of the five classes.

Class 1A is the smallest classification, while Class 5A is the largest.

Members of the Chicago Public League do not participate in the playoffs.

Assignment of conferences and schools into classes is based on average conference enrollment using attendance figures of the previous school year, has produced the following breakdown:

Class 1A, average enrollment of 6,301; 13 conferences; 105 conference teams, seven potential independents.

2A, 302-534; 13, 96 and 10, 2A, 535-1,143; 13, 96 and 14, 4A, 1,144-2,143; 13, 96 and nine, 5A, 2,144-3,291; 13, 100 and two.

Totals, 65 conferences, 495 league teams and 42 independents.

Madison is 3A, North 4A and South 5A.

The Illinois system is unique to prep football tournament competition. The champion of each conference is guaranteed a berth in the 16-team field of its respective class.

In the event of co-champions, a conference will select its representative.

To be eligible for the playoffs, a conference must play a minimum of eight games by the first Saturday in November (Nov. 5).

Conference affiliates, at least five games must be against teams within a school's conference. Each school, whether a conference affiliate or a potential independent selection, also must play at least one game against an IHSA member school.

"At large berths" also will be earned in each of the five classes.

Eligible independents with a winning percentage of 80 percent or better will be given first consideration for such berths in their respective class.

Conference co-champions not selected as the official representative by their conference and conference runner-up, each having a winning percentage of 60 or better, will be given second consideration, as a group, for remaining "at large berths" in their respective class.

There will be a minimum of three berths to fill in each of the five brackets.

Should the champion of a conference involving IHSA member schools and schools from another state, then all IHSA member schools in such a conference will be considered potential eligible independents.

The conferences for 1977 by class are (with conference enrollments):

Selection of the eight host conferences in each of the five classes also establishes the framework for the pairings in each class, which are scheduled to be officially announced the weekend of Nov. 5-6 and which will be made on the traditional IHSA geographic pattern.

The champions in each of the eight designated conferences per class will host preliminary round games Wednesday, Nov. 9. Those games will start between 1:30 and 7:30 p.m., based on a kickoff time agreed to by the two competing schools.

Quarterfinal round games will be played at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 12. Semifinal round games are set for 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 19.

The two survivors in each class will advance to the semifinals in preliminary games on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 25-26 the weekend following Thanksgiving.

Kickoff schedule for the title contests will be: Session No. 1 — Class 1A game at 12:10 p.m. Nov. 25 and Class 2A game at approximately 2:30 p.m. Nov. 25.

Session No. 2 — Class 3A game at 7:40 p.m. Nov. 25. Session No. 3 — Class 4A game at 1:10 p.m. Nov. 26. Session No. 4 — Class 5A game at 7:10 p.m. Nov. 26.

Conferences selected to serve as the host for preliminary round games by class are:

CLASS 1A — Little Eight, Bi-County, Vermilion Valley, Mid-State (Mid-Central), East Central, Meridian, Little Oak Valley and Western Illinois Valley.

CLASS 2A — Northwestern Illinois, Olympic, Lincoln Trail, Three Rivers, Wabash, Big Oak Valley, West Central and Black Diamond.

CLASS 3A — Private School League, Shark, Kankakee Valley, North Central (Southwest), North Egypt, Apollo, Mid-State and Heart of Illinois.

CLASS 4A — Northern Illinois (Big 9), Northwest Suburban South, DuPage Valley, Illinois Eight, North Seven, Capital, SICA East and North Central (Northeast).

CLASS 5A — Chicago Catholic League, Mid-Suburban South, East Suburban Catholic, Central Suburban North, West Suburban, Upstate Eight, SICA West and Western Big Six.

Host and visiting schools for the preliminary round will be determined by the following factors:

1) If both teams advancing have hosted, the bottom team in the bracket will be the host school.

2) If both teams advancing have not hosted, the bottom team in the bracket will be the host school.

3) If one of the teams advancing has hosted and the other has not, the team which has not hosted will be the host for that game.

4) If one of the advancing teams traveled a distance of 150 miles or more as the visiting team in a preliminary round game, that team will be the host team for the quarter-final round game.

5) If both teams advancing traveled 150 miles or more, the bottom team in the bracket will be the host school.

6) In the semifinal round, of one of the advancing teams has hosted one and the other, the team having hosted once will be the host team.

7) In all rounds, including the championship games, the host team will wear dark jerseys. For the championship games, the team advancing from the top half of the bracket will be the visiting team and the team advancing from the bottom half of the bracket will be the home team.

In addition, the IHSA executive secretary has been granted authority by the board of directors to reassign the site of a playoff game location in the event that unusual circumstances develop. At the same time, a site other than the designated host school's home field may be used subject to approval of the board of directors.

It's football time again at Granite City schools

North hopes for a playoff berth

Tom Wyrostek has a lot on his mind these days. You see, he's got a big gap to fill.

Wyrostek, the head football coach at Granite City High School North, lost a total of 21 seniors from last season's impressive 7-2 squad.

"It's hard to single out one player who's going to be hard to replace," Wyrostek said. "When you lose a player, they're all hard to replace."

One of those 21 seniors lost was quarterback Greg Corey. "We've got two seniors who will be going for that spot," said

Wyrostek. "Mike Miller and Doug Rains. Right now it's a little early to say who'll get the job."

Another of those hard-to-fill spots on the roster is that vacated by Fred Clay, the first Steeler in history to gain over 1,000 yards in a season (1,007 yards and 12 touchdowns).

Coach Wyrostek will have ample time to see how his '77 Steelers will shape up.

Starting yesterday, they began two-day practices (8 a.m. and 4 p.m.). He expects about 50 to report out for varsity.

The outlook for this season? "It's hard to replace anybody," he added. "But we have a great group of guys coming back."

The Steelers are in the 4A Class for post-season football playoffs, but as an independent, they have to come up with an outstanding record — 80 percent or better victories — to be extended a bid.

How about a conference? "Of course, we'd rather be in a conference," Wyrostek said. "But you have to have one to join before you join one."

Mostly a ground team last year (1,600 yards on the ground — about half that in the air), North will open its schedule this year at home on Friday, Sept. 9, against Cahokia.

COACH STAN WOJCIK of the GCHS South football Warriors during yesterday's opening practices.

GC South looks to returnees for help

Stan Wojcik is a realist. He has to be with his job... he's a high school football coach. He coaches at Granite City South. But being a realist doesn't dull his enthusiasm or optimism.

One from South's 4-5 team of a year ago are 15 graduating seniors. Among them, starting quarterback Keith Champion, center Dan Staunton, tackle Paul Evans and tight end corner-back Tim Anderson.

Who's back to replace these players?

"We think that Mike Forshee will be able to take over and be our quarterback," said Wojcik. Cliff Moran and Jay Heubner should round out the Warriors starting backfield. All three of those players are seniors this year and have considerable experience.

What about the opposition for South this year?

"There are absolutely no breathers on our schedule," said Wojcik. "Our first game is against Jefferson City (Mo.) and they're awfully tough."

The Warriors' season begins with that game on Sept. 10 and continues until Nov. 4, when they entertain the other Missouri team on their schedule, Pattonville. Squeezed in there on Sept. 23 is a game at home against the team that Wojcik feels may be the strongest team in the area this year.

"BELLEVILLE EAST should be very tough," he said. "With the returning lettermen they have, they could be extremely hard to beat."

"They almost wound up in the final round of the state playoffs last year. If they'd have made it, I think they might have won the whole thing."

"North (Granite City) will also have a good ball club. They always do. You can never count them out."

Wojcik will get a chance to see just how tough his team is going to be. South athletes began two-a-day practices yesterday.

"They'll go until the day before school starts, after which they'll go to after-school workouts."

Right now, they practice at 8 in the morning. Their afternoon practices will be staggered. South competes in the Class 5A state playoffs. How does Wojcik evaluate his team's chances at this early point?

"It's pretty early to say, but being an independent, we'd have to have everything going our way."

"Our goal is a winning season," he added. "After that, we'll take anything we can get."

Granite City South may get a lot this year.

Invitational to begin

The seventeenth annual Granite City Park District Invitational tennis tournament will get under way tomorrow at 9 a.m. According to tournament director Mike Papes, matches in the Junior Division will begin the morning Friday morning.

"We plan on using the courts at South High School and those at Wilson Park," said Papes. "But if the ones at South aren't ready, all matches will be played at Wilson Park." The school courts have been resurfaced.

Play in the tourney will continue through the finals, which are scheduled for 1 p.m. Sunday. Deadline for entering the tournament is 3 p.m. today, and entries will be accepted if they are premarked before midnight tonight.

Fees for entering are $4 for singles and $3.50 per person for doubles.

There are three divisions for this year's tournament. The Junior Division is for boys and girls 18 and under, the Men's Division is for those 18-to-35, the Women's for those 18-to-30. The Senior Men's is for those 35 and over, and the Senior Women's is for those 30 and over.

In addition, the Junior Division is divided into groups of age 18 and under, 16 and under, 14 and under, and 12 and under for both boys and girls. Trophies will be awarded to the winner and runner-up in each age group.

Some of the returning players who could have an impact on the final standings include Dana Hawkins, last year's 18 and under girls winner from Cahokia, Steve Lesko, the boys 18 and under champ from last year and singles player from Eastern Illinois, and Bill Ruskick, Granite City South graduate and singles player at SIUE.

The tournament is sanctioned by the United States Tennis Association and the Missouri Valley Tennis Association.

Three Granite City slow-pitch teams, Granite City Athletic Club, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Victory Tavern, will compete in this weekend's Illinois Class 1A softball championship tournament at Decatur. At least one of the teams, however, will be knocked off quickly.

The reason is that two of the teams from Granite City will be playing each other. The Granite City Athletic Club squares off against Victory Tavern Saturday, with the loser being eliminated from the tourney.

Each of the three teams from Granite City won two games and lost one last weekend and thus are in the losers' bracket. It is a double-elimination tournament.

Twenty teams are involved — nine from Granite City and 11 from Collinsville — in five divisions.

Play is on Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m.

Five teams were eliminated during the weekend, and 15 will play this weekend.

The program is non-profit. Alan Gasparovic has organized and promoted the tournament. There was a $25 entry fee for each team. Trophies will be awarded to teams and individual patches for all participants.

Jones has come a long way from Alabama but it's worth the trip

Lance Jones, the junior motorcycle sensation from Gadsden, Ala., led the way in the 12-lap main event at the Tri-City Speedway short track Tuesday night.

Jones passed National Number 15, Rick Hocking, Fremont, Calif., on the second lap and began to pull away from the field. Novice rider Ron Jones, Oklahoma City, Okla., had a close battle with Hocking. Hocking took second and Jones third.

Local riders Rob Beary of Belleville, current points leader at Tri-City, and Doug Ahn of Collinsville had a hot battle for fourth, with Beary taking over fourth on lap ten and Ahn finishing ahead of National Number 26, Ken McDonald of Okatchee, Ala.

The cycle races next Tuesday will feature an additional event — an Illinois state championship race. Any American Motorcycle Association professional motorcycle rider from Illinois will be eligible to ride.

The purse for this special event will be $300.

Earl Greenlee, St. Ann, Mo., set the fast time for the 1/4-mile at 15.15 seconds and took tenth in the feature event Tuesday night.

Link farm assessing to income production

A new system to relieve inflation-driven tax assessments on Illinois farmlands was signed into law Tuesday by Governor James R. Thompson. "Farmland is unique in character," Thompson said. "I feel it is imperative that we do something now in Illinois to preserve our agricultural lands and to keep farming a viable way of life."

Across the past four and a half years, farmland values have tripled in Illinois, including a 41 percent increase in 1976.

"We all suffer the pain of inflation, but farmers are the hardest hit of all. The bill I'm signing today will relieve farmland from the onerous tax consequences of rampant inflation."

Under Illinois law, farmland, along with all real property, is assessed for taxes at one-third of its fair cash value.

Senate Bill 465, signed by Gov. Thompson during a ceremony in Agriculture Day at the State Fair, provides for removal of farmlands from the one-third-cash-value provisions, and for their assessment for taxes under a process closely related to their income-producing capabilities.

Under a hold-harmless provision of the bill, no 1977 farmland assessments can be less than 1976 levels, with farm residences and buildings to be assessed the same as other residential properties.

"This bill is a first step in attempting reform of property tax assessments," Thompson said.

"I do not say there won't be problems with the implementation of this bill. Steps are being taken to draft legislation for next year's legislative session setting up uniform criteria for setting less than maximum productivity values on farmland."

Also, Thompson said he will provide proposed legislation giving overview authority in the assessment process to the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs (DLGA).

The governor said DLGA would need the authority to assess the hold-harmless period ends — in order to assure consistent assessment procedures statewide.

In addition, Thompson said the department, under the guidance of Director John Castle, will hold seminars on property tax reforms for taxpayers, assessors and local-level government officials to "address the tax reform problem rationally, accompanied by the greatest amount of public testimony possible."

Among those participating in the bill-signing ceremony was the Illinois Department of Agriculture Director Jack Block.

The farm assessment bill was introduced in the Senate by Sen. Jerome J. Joyce, Redick, and sponsored in the House by Rep. Gerald A. Bradley, Bloomington. It passed both chambers with bipartisan support.

Amoco drops funding for Northern pipeline

Amoco Oil Company has informed the management of Northern Tier Pipeline that it will make no further financial contributions to a Northern Tier feasibility study and is considering alternate means for transporting crude oil to its Upper Midwest refineries.

Announcement of Amoco's decision was made by W. R. Peirson, company president.

Peirson said Amoco continues to believe that the Northern Tier pipeline "could provide both foreign and surplus Alaskan crude oil to meet crude oil shortfalls at Midwest refineries at the lowest cost of all transportation options to consumers."

However, he indicated that a combination of factors has caused Amoco to reconsider its Northern Tier participation and to consider other options.

Factors cited by Peirson include lack of participation in the project by other refiners; conservation-induced changes in energy demand projections which reduce the need for additional pipelines; uncertainties and changes in government policies concerning joint ventures and pipeline ownership by integrated oil companies; tariff structures, and crude oil pricing.

Peirson said other problems, such as port siting and federal and state permits, are also unresolved and could impact on the timely completion of the line.

The company is studying various options for supplying its customers in the Northern Tier and Upper Midwest states if the Northern Tier line is not built.

"Amoco is confident supply arrangements can be worked out — even if Northern Tier is not built — although at somewhat higher transportation costs," Peirson said.

The Northern Tier pipeline proposal calls for construction of a common-carrier crude oil pipeline from a port in the state of Washington. The pipeline would be supplied by tankers using a deepwater port facility which could receive crude oil from Alaskan and foreign sources.

Peirson said Amoco would reconsider its decision on the Northern Tier pipeline feasibility study if substantial refiner-shipper support should develop.

Deputy district engineer

LT. COL. JOHN S. WILKES III

Lieutenant Colonel John S. Wilkes III has been named deputy district engineer for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, St. Louis District, succeeding Lt. Col. Richard Goll in the post.

Col. Wilkes was previously chief of master plans with the Directorate of Facilities Engineering, U.S. Support Command, Hawaii, in Honolulu. A graduate of the U.S. Military Academy with a master's degree in civil engineering from Texas A&M, he has served in both military and civil works staff and command positions in Korea, Vietnam and the United States.

Born in Birmingham, Ala., and educated in North Carolina, New York and Texas, he now calls Memphis, Tenn., his permanent home. In his new position, he becomes second in command of the 26,000-square-mile district with a primary responsibility of overseeing planning and construction activities for water resources programs and projects in a 300-mile reach of the Mississippi River and four tributary basins.

Grand juries probe thefts, GC records

Two grand juries are scheduled to meet Monday—one in Edwardsville investigating allegations that one or more Madison County sheriff's deputies purchased stolen television sets from persons indicted in a major theft case, and a federal grand jury is to convene in Springfield to study Granite City purchasing records concerning materials and work for streets, sewers and sanitation.

The county grand jury, meeting in Edwardsville Monday, is to continue an investigation it began Aug. 1 into the thefts of nearly $10,000 worth of television sets, stereo equipment, citizens' band radios and other equipment from the Bert's Auto-TV Showrooms in Granite City and Alton during several days in mid-June.

The grand jury Aug. 1 indicted four men on charges of theft—Kenneth Stover, 20, and Gary Rainey, 20, both of Alton, and Robert Gayan, 30, and Mark McManis, 22, both of Godfrey.

They are charged with taking items from Bert's Granite City store.

Monday's grand jury is expected to consider alleged thefts from the Alton store and to investigate where the stolen items went from the time they were taken until they were recovered.

At least one of those already indicted has allegedly implicated a Madison County sheriff's deputy in the case, alleging he purchased about $1,300 worth of equipment, including a color console television set, for about $270 cash. Sources contend the deputy says he did not know the items were stolen.

Another deputy is said to have seen or handled some of the stolen merchandise, but is not believed heavily involved in disposing of the "hot" items.

Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron has pledged full prosecution of everyone involved in the case "if there is sufficient evidence."

The federal grand jury meeting in Springfield Monday is reported to be studying documents subpoenaed from Granite City officials last month.

Street Superintendent Lionel Portell and City Clerk Robert W. Stevens complied with federal subpoenas for all city documents related to contracting for service or materials for streets, sewer repairs and sanitation.

The documents were to have been studied by the grand jury Aug. 5, but that session was postponed until Monday.

There also are unconfirmed rumors that at least two area contractors have been sub-poeaned to appear before the federal grand jury, but federal authorities will not confirm those rumors because grand jury sessions are secret by law. Official sources would not comment on what the grand jury is seeking in the city's purchasing records, which date back to Jan. 1, 1970.

Festival in Lincoln Place

The Mexican Honorary Commission of Granite City received approval at Tuesday night's meeting of the City Council to sponsor a "Festival and Street Dance" Saturday, Sept. 17, and Sunday, Sept. 18, in Lincoln Place.

The festivities will take place on the Mexican Honorary Commission's (MHC) property at 1801 Spruce St.

Plans for kiddie rides and booths also were approved. John B. Valencia, MHC president, and Hank Lopez, project chairman, said entertainment will be presented by various groups, including the commission's artistic ensemble.

Different ethnic groups have been invited to participate by providing entertainment or sponsoring booths, the officers said. The outdoor festival will be open to the public from 2 p.m. until 11 p.m. on both dates.

Walk-A-Thon for ERA

The National Walk-A-Thon for Equal Rights, sponsored by local chapters of the National Organization for Women (NOW), will take place Saturday, Aug. 27, from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

The starting point will be the Edwardsville High School grounds on Highway 157.

Among the local sponsors are the Metro-East NOW Chapter, headed by Mrs. Norma Mendoza, and the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville NOW Chapter.

"Women, men, girls and boys who are interested in ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) are invited to get sponsors and join in the walk-a-thon," Mrs. Mendoza said.

Sponsor sheets and additional information are available by calling 301-5400.

The "Walk for Equality Day" project commemorates the 57th anniversary of the adoption of the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Elderly woman struck by auto

Mrs. Alma Richards, 72, of 1708 Kirkpatrick Homes, was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital and transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, with injuries she sustained when struck by a car about 10:30 p.m. Monday on Nameoki Road in the 2700 block of Kirkpatrick Homes.

Jeffrey A. Singleton, 17, of 4092 Park Lane, said he was driving south on Nameoki Road when he saw a vehicle alongside him apply its brakes to avoid hitting a pedestrian.

Singleton said the pedestrian continued to cross the road and he applied his brakes, but skidded into the woman.

Mrs. Richards was found lying near the curb about 15 feet away from Singleton's auto.

She was taken by ambulance to the hospital here and then transferred to Firmin Desloge with abrasions to the nose, cheek, right shoulder and hip and left knee, a cut to the right eyebrow and bruises to the forehead.

Mr., Mrs. Joseph Kaleta observe 50th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kaleta, 926 Reynolds St., Madison, were honored on their golden wedding anniversary at a reception given during the weekend at the Polish Hall in Madison, by their children.

Hosting the social event were the honorees' two sons Joseph D. Kaleta and Louis C. Kaleta and a daughter, Mrs. Jo Ann Jones of Wooster, Ohio, and their families.

Mr. Kaleta and his wife, Anna, were married on Oct. 22, 1927, at the Sacred Heart of Jesus Polish National Catholic Church.

The pre-anniversary party was given so out of town relatives and guests could attend during the summer vacation time.

Mr. and Mrs. Kaleta, who also have seven grandchildren, received approximately 280 guests. They also were presented with a surprise gift from their children, a trip to Hawaii to be taken later this year.

Both are members of Sacred Heart of Jesus Polish National Catholic Church. Mr. Kaleta is also a member of the Madison City Organization and the Madison County and State Organization.

Mr. Kaleta was employed for 47 and one half years at Granite City Steel prior to his retirement Jan. 21, 1975. His wife worked for many years at Nesco Co. and retired in 1950. Since their retirement the couple enjoy traveling and fishing trips, Mrs. Kaleta added.

Senior Citizens to host Friday picnic

The YMCA Senior Citizens Club met during the weekend at the "Y" and completed plans to host an indoor picnic tomorrow with each one attending to provide a covered dish. After the luncheon games will be played and prizes awarded to the winners, it was announced.

President Lucille Pierce reported arrangements to hold social parties on the fourth Friday of each month have been completed.

The meeting was opened with prayers and the pledge to the flag, followed by a luncheon.

Mrs. Pierce introduced a new member, Johanna Gerald. Forty members were present for the session.

Central Baptist plans revival

Evangelist Don Edwards from Tampa, Fla. will be at Central Baptist Church, 3910 Highway 111, the week of Aug. 22-28 at 7:30 each evening for services. Evangelist Edwards is known by many people in this area. His wife, Mary, will sing and conduct puppet shows during the meetings.

The week will climax with the celebration of the fifth anniversary of Central Baptist Church on Aug. 28. Dinner at the church is planned plus a special afternoon program. During the evening service the Letter Roloff film "Freedom's Last Call" will be shown.

Pastor John Lamb invites the public to attend all the services. A nursery will be provided, he added.

The Grim Reaper to be shown at Calvary Assembly

"The Grim Reaper," filmed by the Ormond Organization, producers of "The Burning Hell," will be shown at the Calvary Pentecostal Assembly, 4650 Maryville Road, at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The film includes in its cast four of America's widely-known preachers, Drs. Jerry Falwell, E. J. Daniels, Bob Gray and Jack Van Impe, according to the Rev. Harold Maynard, pastor of Calvary Pentecostal.

The story involves the life of a typical American family and the death of a son whom the father later attempts to reach through spiritualism, according to Rev. Maynard.

A subsequent series of events in which the dead boy's brother, a young minister, attempts to lead his brother to the Lord portrays a powerful message, the Rev. Maynard added.

GC firefighters to fight dystrophy with a tag day

Granite City firefighters are sponsoring a voluntary "fill-the-box" tag day Friday, Aug. 26, to aid the fight against muscular dystrophy.

All proceeds will go to support the Muscular Dystrophy Association's (MDA) international research effort and its program of direct free services to patients.

Firefighter campaign coordinator Ed McGovern, president of Firefighter Local 253, is asking that area citizens give generously to Fill-the-Box crusaders. "We are proud to participate in this lifesaving and worthy project," he said.

GC crime down 22.7% in July

Major crimes in eight categories declined 22.7 per cent in Granite City during July, according to a report released by Lt. Col. George Teller, assistant chief of police.

The report listed a total of 255 crimes during the month, a reduction of 75 from the total of 330 reported during the same month in 1976.

The report showed 65 persons were injured in the 46 personal injury accidents last month, up 47.7 per cent over the 44 injuries in 31 injury accidents during July 1976.

Fewer eye injuries due to fireworks

Fourth of July eye injuries from exploding fireworks were surprisingly light in Illinois this year, according to the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

The number of burglaries last month dropped by four to a total of 54. Increases were shown, however, in the number of assault cases, 37 compared with 22 a year ago, and in one reported rape case, compared to none a year ago.

The Police Department made 166 traffic arrests during July, down 20 from 186 in July a year ago, along with 140 other arrests, up from 128, for a total of 306 arrests during the month. These compared with a total of 315 arrests in July 1976.

Edgar T. Britton, ISPB executive director, said its survey reports show that Illinois ophthalmologists treated 36 victims this year, most of them children or teenagers. No one was blinded, although some of the injuries were serious.

Traffic accidents in Granite City increased 28.4 per cent last month, including 46 personal injury accidents (up 40.3 per cent over July a year ago) and 121 property damage accidents (up 23.4 per cent over 96 in July 1976).

Chouteau ok's bid on new parking lot

The lowest of three bidders was recommended for a contract to build a new parking lot at the Chouteau Town Hall which was placed in use this month, during a meeting of the Town Board Monday night.

The board suggested the contract go to the Atlas Excavating and Trucking Co. of Godfrey on a bid price of $7,890 if the firm's qualifications meet the architect's requirements.

Two other bids were received, one from Degerlia General Hauling & Excavating of Wood River for $10,891, and the other from Kamadulski Excavating Co. of Madison at $10,467.

Board members also approved a new 1977 tax levy totaling $196,475 in all five township accounts.

New levies include $76,750 in the general road and bridge fund, $15,000 in the building and equipment fund for highway purposes, and $7,000 for municipal retirement payments in the road and bridge funds, for a total of $98,750 for highway accounts.

For the town fund the board approved a levy of $68,100, and for general assistance purposes levied a total of $28,625, for a total of $97,725 for township purposes.

Patricia Polley, town clerk, informed the board that the township estimates income of $32,959 in federal revenue sharing funds during entitlement period nine between Oct. 1 this year and Sept. 30, 1978. The revenue sharing fund also has received $28,499 which was repaid with Community Development funds.

The township borrowed that amount from the revenue sharing account for payments on the new town building pending receipt of the Community Development allotment.

Mrs. Polley noted the township will use this balance to pay for new furnishings and equipment which are now being acquired for the town hall.

Allen Walker of Granite City, attorney for the township, ruled in a legal opinion that the township cannot legally build an office building on the town hall tract for the Nameoki, Chouteau & Venice Levee District.

The levee district had requested the township furnish the facility, but Walker held it would be illegal for the township to spend town tax funds on building an office on land owned by the township for another taxing agency.

Board members held a brief discussion with Charles Dennison of Bloomington, an insurance risk agent, concerning the township's liability coverage for the town hall facility. The township now is covered but is investigating its full needs.

Also approved was the purchase of fire extinguishers and a fire suppression unit for the hood of the range in the town hall kitchen from Fire Safety Sales and Services, Wood River. Cost was $727.

Mrs. Polley said the township recently received a tax distribution of $15,000 for the road and bridge fund and $9,700 for the town and general assistance funds.

Most license renewal forms have been sent

About 65 per cent of pre-printed renewal applications for 1978 license plates have been mailed to owners of passenger cars, motorcycles and second division vehicles which are registered on a calendar year.

Secretary of State Alan J. Dixon said this week that additional renewal forms are being sent daily.

In 1976, passenger car registrations totaled 5.5 million. Applications for reassignments and special requests must be in our Springfield office before the Sept. 30 deadline," Dixon said. "Reassignment of current license numbers is guaranteed under state law if received by the specified date."

Dixon urged all motorists to retain their pre-print renewals until they are ready to purchase their license. This form is the only official renewal application accepted for processing.

"Pre-prints enable our office to handle the heavy volume far more efficiently," Dixon explained.

"Even if the address or vehicle has been changed, the incorrect information should be lined out and corrected on the form."

Deadline for displaying 1977 plates is midnight Dec. 31.

World steel outlook troubled, CIA finds

Wall Street Journal—Echoing some of the trade worries of American steelmakers, the Central Intelligence Agency concluded in a recent, classified report that "the world steel industry is in trouble" because of sagging demand and intense import pressure.

A copy of the 13-page CIA report—titled "World Steel Market: Continued Trouble Ahead"—was obtained from sources close to the steel industry.

A CIA spokesman said the report, which bears the low-level classification "for official use only," has been "widely disseminated" within the government since it was published last May.

The intelligence study was prepared as U.S. steelmakers were beginning their campaign to pressure the government for restrictions on low-price steel imports, particularly from Japan.

While the CIA report didn't discuss the "dumping" charges that have been leveled by U.S. producers, it stressed that excess capacity in Japan is likely to mean continuing high exports to the U.S., which would be a "major outlet" for surplus Japanese steel.

"In the next few years," the report asserts, "the inescapable conclusion is that the main (steel) trade difficulties will be between the U.S. and Japan."

The report praised the Japanese steel industry as "the most modern and efficient in the world" with "the competitive clout to capture practically all of the world market for net steel imports."

It said European steelmakers are in "the worst shape" among major producers, and have "little option but to concentrate on protecting their domestic markets."

In its stress on the import pressures that are likely to result from excess steelmaking capacity through 1980, the CIA analysis parallels that made in a report on "economics of international steel trade," commissioned by the American Iron and Steel Institute, the industry's trade group. The AISI report was also published last May.

World economic expansion... decline by 1980 from current levels, the report adds, chiefly because of lower shipments to developed countries, which are building their own domestic capacity.

Moreover, "prospects for a sustained upturn are poor," the report asserts.

More rapid economic growth isn't likely to solve steel's problems, the study claims.

"Steel demand would have to increase at a rate nearly two-thirds faster than the long-term average before most steel producers could achieve acceptable operating rates and import pressure would abate."

Such a burst of demand is doubtful, the CIA argues, as overall economic growth in free world countries is likely to be substantially lower over the coming years than it was in the two decades prior to 1973.

The CIA predicts that a major source of import pressure will be Japan, which needs especially high operating rates to realize economies of scale in its new, capital-intensive miller.

To achieve desired operating rates, Japanese producers will need to capture the entire global net import market, as well as significant tonnage in markets that are currently self-sufficient, the report asserts.

As most European and less-developed-country steel producers are likely to receive some form of trade protection, the report notes, "this leaves only the U.S. and possibly Canada as potential major outlets for surplus Japanese steel."

One possible weak link in the CIA analysis is its projection that Japanese steelmaking capacity will jump to 165 million metric tons in 1980 from 140 million last year. A metric ton is 2,204.6 pounds.

Several major Japanese steelmakers have recently trimmed their planned investment levels, and a Japanese trade group has argued that there could be a slight capacity shortage by 1980, rather than a steel glut.

The CIA credits the Japanese "competitive edge" over other producers to "lower wage rates, high and rapidly rising labor productivity, and lower capital costs for constructing plants."

The report adds that Japan's competitive position "has been further aided by its advanced production technology."

Mayors to confer with legislators

The next meeting of the Madison, St. Clair, Monroe County) Southwestern Illinois Council of Mayors will be held Wednesday, Aug. 31, at Millias' Steak House, Routes 13 and 157, Centerville.

The hospitality hour will begin at 6, with dinner at 7 and the meeting at 8 p.m. The cost is $7 per person, and the host will be Mayor Curtis Miller of Alorton.

Swansea Mayor Don Melhorn has succeeded Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk as president. Wood River Mayor William Magary is vice-president.

This month there will be a discussion between local state representatives and the mayors' group, with "hopes of getting answers to some of the problems that municipalities have."

DAMAGED SQUAD CAR of Granite City Patrolman John Apperson is shown at 27th Street and Madison Avenue minutes after the police car and the auto of

GC officer hurt in crash

Granite City Police Patrolman John Apperson, 35, underwent plastic surgery last night for cuts to his left elbow sustained when his police car and the auto of Charles Arbeiter, 49, of 2945 Fehling Road, collided at 27th Street and Madison Avenue at 3:40 p.m. yesterday.

Arbeiter, who was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way to an emergency vehicle and failure to yield while making a left turn, also was injured, but was released after treatment and x-rays at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Apperson was serving as the "chase" car for a radar unit at 28th Street and Madison Avenue and was chasing a speeder and headed southwest when the accident occurred.

Witnesses said Apperson's car had its red lights and white Opticom light on and had just turned the siren off when it entered the intersection on a green light and Arbeiter's oncoming car allegedly turned left into the path of the squad car.

Apperson's unit skidded about 57 feet before impact and Arbeiter's auto was spun nearly 180 degrees after the collision.

There was extensive damage to the fronts of both cars and the squad car was considered damaged beyond repair. The front bumper was knocked off and the hood was crumpled nearly to the top of the car.

A Granite City ambulance took the drivers to the hospital and street workers had to clean oil and gasoline from the street.

In addition to the cut to his elbow, Apperson sustained a bump to the side of his forehead. Arbeiter suffered cuts to his forehead and the right side of his head.

Boy's leg broken

Christopher McCullough, 2½, of 4719 Warnock Ave., suffered a broken left leg and an abrasion to his forehead when he was struck by the auto of Connie Stawak, 28, of 2815 E. 12th St., in front of the child's home at 2:30 p.m. Monday.

The driver said who was southbound when the child ran into the roadway. She applied her brakes, but the child bumped into the car and fell onto the pavement, she related.

Christopher was taken by his mother to St. Elizabeth Hospital where he was x-rayed and admitted.

Venice school service workers get pay hikes

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

Venice School Board members last night endorsed the board's negotiating committee's recommendation to grant an increase of 16½ cents per hour in the next school year to members of Building Service Employees Local 98, and 20 cents per hour in the 1978-79 school year.

In a special public hearing prior to Wednesday's regular session, the board adopted an estimated budget of $2,415,599 for the next fiscal year with estimated revenue amounting to $1,984,025.

The adopted budget reflects a $640 increase in estimated expenditures and a $2,000 increase in estimated revenue over the figures previously posted.

Difference in the adopted amount was due to the Venice School District purchasing two buses to transport students and also a mini-bus replacing a van formerly used for special education pupils.

Tentative agreement with the union's negotiating team has been reached on the salary raises. However, a further meeting is planned to discuss use of Manpower employees in the Venice School District before the two-year contract can be signed, Jack Tolliver, chairman of the board's negotiators, said.

Also approved was a 15-cent-per-hour raise in 1977-78 and an additional 15-cent-per-hour the following year for teachers' aides working in the district.

The current pay is $3.75 per hour, increasing to $3.90 in 1977-78 and $4.05 in 1978-79.

An additional half-day was added to the security guard's work week, giving him employment 31½ days per week.

Present hourly rate of custodians is $4.65 per hour, which will increase to $4.81 this school year and $5.01 in 1978-79.

A school matron now working a four-hour day at $4.30 per hour will receive $4.46 in the 1977-78, and $4.66 in the 1978-79.

Under the new tentative agreement, the head cook will make $5.54 per hour in 1977-78 and $5.74 per hour in 1978-79. The pay of other cooks was raised to $3.47 and $3.61 in the second year.

Secretaries in two classifications of employment also received increases.

Class I's starting rate, was increased to $3.50 per hour and $3.70 per hour (second year) to $4.12 and $4.32 after 10 years.

Class II starting salary will be $3.62 in 1977-78 and $3.82 in the following year (starting rate) to $4.23 and $4.43 after 10 years.

In other business the board hired James E. Ohlendorf, Dorothy A. Smith and Margaret McGarrath as teachers under the Title VII program.

Faculty members whose letters of honorable dismissal have not yet been rescinded were authorized to receive them.

Also approved were: scraping basepaths to create a regulation size softball diamond at the rear of Venice schools; and payment of physical examination for qualified bus drivers.

The resignation of George Weimers, driver-education and bus driver, was accepted.

A lengthy discussion ensued on whether to replace Weimers, or change the driver-education program to after school hours and utilize a teacher currently employed by the district.

Total of $800,000 in tax money has been received, Sup. Robert N. Vickers said, enabling repayment of all outstanding tax anticipation warrants in the education fund.

Theft charged

Randall D. Parker, 21, of Lot 233, 3801 Lake Drive, was arrested and charged with theft and having no valid driver's license (suspended Jan. 28, 1976) when his truck was stopped by police on West Pontoon Road at Braden Avenue at 10:25 a.m. Tuesday.

The theft charged was based on a bicycle found in the truck bed which allegedly was stolen Aug. 11 from Mike Burjan, 3357 Colgate Place, while the owner was staying overnight with a friend at 3300 Harvard Place.

Family members identified the bicycle at police headquarters, police said.

The machine initially was seen in the truck by a Pontoon Beach police officer, who requested assistance from Granite City officers in halting the vehicle.

May need to dewater Franklin sewer line, GC council told Replacement of approximately 800 feet of sanitary sewer line along Franklin Avenue from the city street level, Lionel Portell, city street superintendent, told the City Council Tuesday night.

As a result, council members concurred in a request by Portell for authorization to rent approximately 30 well points to dewater areas that threaten to flood sewer line excavations during the final stage of Franklin Avenue sewer replacement.

Portell told the aldermen that rental of the well points, which are furnished with pumps, would cost about $3,500, "or $4,000 tops including the cost of the pump." He said the sewer division of the street department plans to rent the well points "only in the event that it becomes absolutely necessary."

Monroe Brewer, city engineer, suggested that if well points are used for dewatering, Assistant City Engineer reached a "critical stage" in which excavation has dropped below the groundwater level.

He said the sewer division of the street department plans to rent the well points "only in the event that it becomes absolutely necessary."

Edward Schultz should be assigned to direct the work because of schooling Schultz has in dewatering processes.

Portell replied he had no objections to that proposal.

The street superintendent explained that about 600 feet of the sewer line has been laid, replacing broken and collapsed line that had been one of the department's worst sewer problems in the last several years.

But, he said, excavations now at about 14 feet and the groundwater level at that point would be expected to flood further excavating work.

"We now are at the point of making a 90-degree turn toward the lift station at Amos Avenue, with about 200 feet of line still to be laid," Portell said.

"We are certain we will run into some dewatering problems," he said in his request for authority to rent the well points and pumps.

Portell told the aldermen that rental of the well points, which are furnished with pumps, would cost about $3,500, "or $4,000 tops including the cost of the pump." He said the sewer division of the street department plans to rent the well points "only in the event that it becomes absolutely necessary."

Tries to put out fire, breaks hip

Mrs. Edna Soechtig, 79, of 100 Briarhaven Drive, fell while trying to put out a fire in a chair at her apartment shortly after 12 noon Monday.

She was admitted at St. Elizabeth Hospital with a fracture of the right hip and also was treated for smoke inhalation.

Firemen were called to the dwelling and extinguished the blaze. The fire apparently started when a short occurred in an electrical wiring cord near the chair.

Estimated loss was listed at $200 to contents and $150 smoke damage.

GC man charged in burglary

Russell K. Pulley, 20, of 2106 Namecki Road, was charged with burglary at 3:40 p.m. Monday after police officers responded to a burglary in progress call and found Pulley allegedly leaving a rear door of the Granite City Moose Club, 19th and Adams streets.

Fifteen bottles of liquor and the bottom half of a blending machine were discovered in a small open trailer outside the back door, police said.

While investigating the incident, an officer answered a phone inside the Moose Club, and the woman caller asked to speak to Pulley.

Inadvertently, the caller also identified a vehicle which had been parked outside the building when officers arrived and then was driven away by a male occupant, officers reported.

The vehicle belonged to a 21-year-old Granite City man who initially was charged with burglary, but later was released pending further investigation, a detective said.

Police found pry marks on a door at the northeast side of the building and the kitchen door.

The lock, handle and brass plate were pried from the southeast door and a glass block beside the doorway was broken out.

An outside storage room door also had been kicked inward, police said.

On the roof, a vent cover to the kitchen exhaust fan was pulled off and a broken bottle of liquor was found nearby.

Pulley told police he was putting trash cans outside, as his father had a contract to haul the trash away and the truck normally used for this purpose had three flat tires.

The truck was located at the home of another man allegedly involved, without any flat tires, police stated.

Pulley remained in custody Tuesday. He was taken by an officer at 11:30 a.m. to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where he was treated for abrasions to both arms and returned to jail.

Appellate judges hear arguments in sewer case

A three-judge Appellate Court panel heard oral arguments yesterday on the merits of an appeal attempting to block construction of sanitary sewers for Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships.

Appellate Judges John M. Karns, Richard T. Carter and Charles E. Jones heard the arguments from M. Joseph Hill, attorney representing those attempting to block financing of the sewers, and Harry Hartman, attorney for the Madison County special sewer committee which is planning the sewer construction.

Hill repeated arguments presented in a Madison County Circuit Court hearing on the suit, including allegations the county has used the wrong state statutes in setting up the program, had relied upon an unconstitutional "back door" amendment to designate a special sewer service area, and that there are basic unfairness in the program and state statutes allowing special service areas to be established.

Hartman repeated his statements that the county had followed state statutes "to the letter," and that the Circuit Court hearing had confirmed that the county had followed proper procedure in designating a special service area and preparing for the sale of general obligation bonds to finance the project.

No new allegations were made under Appellate Court rules which restrict matters to be discussed to those already on the record.

The judges asked Hill several questions, including one about residents in the special service area who already are provided sewer services by Granite City.

In the audience were the project's engineer, Ed Juneau; Contractor Gene Sternberg, one of those filing the suit; Mrs. Ruth Andrews; former Nameoki Township supervisor Louis Whitsett and Mrs. Mike Rogac.

The court took the matter under advisement after about 45 minutes of oral arguments and went on to the next case on the docket.

It is not known when the Appellate Court will reach its decision. "It could be a very short time, a week, or a very long time. No one knows," Hartman commented today.

SEA OF SCOUTS at one of the gatherings during this year's national Boy Scout jamboree. The opportunity to attend is considered a high honor for scouts, since such jamborees are only held every fourth or fifth year. Jamboree Correspondent Caleb Miller reports that the local scouts at the event "will always remember the fun we had." The jamboree lasted seven days.

BARTERING SKILLS are perfected as local 1977 jamboree scouts trade for activity patches and other souvenirs. Highlights also included a "country fair," reminiscent of local scout-to-ramas; Quad-Cityans made stencils for this event. Also featured was a "merit badge midway." Local Boy Scouts recall the jamboree as a once-in-a-lifetime adventure.

James Barton of Granite City, Madison County Assessment coordinator, said this week a new farm assessing law is "terrible" and "barely workable." He said all local decision-making on farm values is eliminated and the law may have a major impact on the tax base.

Congressman Melvin Price of this district witnessed the 1957 explosion of a 44-kiloton nuclear bomb at Camp Desert Rock, Nev. The government is studying long-term radiation effects of nuclear weapons and is checking the medical records of all who were present. A Chicago man, William R. Hill, 27, convicted of two counts of murder and one count of conspiracy to commit murder, is the first to be sentenced to death under Illinois' new capital punishment law. The last execution in this state was in 1902. Hill was sentenced to die in the electric chair for the contract slayings of two Chicago pharmacists in 1974 and 1975.

St. Louis Mayor James Conway said Wednesday he now opposes letting St. Louis County buy half-interest in Lambert Field. City-county cooperation had been cited as one of the factors in Transportation Secretary Brock Adams' ruling against a new airport in Illinois.

Bishop to name new pastor in September

Father Kenneth Becker, assistant pastor of St. Elizabeth Catholic Church, is temporarily in charge of parish duties at the church until the appointment of another priest is announced by Bishop Joseph A. McNicholas of Springfield.

The appointment of a pastor to replace the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Lawrence J. Mattingly, 69, who is on sick leave status, is expected in early September, according to Fr. Becker.

Monsignor Mattingly underwent major surgery on April 25 and has been in ill health since that time. He presently is a resident of the Shady Rest Manor Nursing Home in his home town of Paris, Ill.

Magr. Mattingly served in Pana and Greenup, Ill., prior to arriving in Granite City in 1962. He began his pastorate here as pastor of St. Elizabeth Church when it was located in Mitchell. He was instrumental in the development of a larger membership when the church moved to its present location at Johnson and Pontoon roads.

All new psychiatric space here will be needed—report

A report given by the staff of the Planned Development Committee of the Greater St. Louis Health Systems Agency indicated an excess of medical surgical beds for the St. Louis standard metropolitan statistical area, including the Illinois counties of Madison, St. Clair, Clinton and Monroe. The report also had surveys concerning obstetrical, pediatric, psychiatric, new technology and end stage renal disease services.

The psychiatric component of the study indicated a need for 82 beds for Madison County, two more than presently available. This includes the 50 beds currently under construction by St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Consequently, the hospital is not adding to the surplus beds problem outlined in the study. Jimmy Tuelken, director of public relations, said today.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Dawn Howell; two sons, Matthew Wayne, 2 years old and Timothy Michael, 3 months; his mother, Mrs. Sharon Case and a brother, Scott Howell, both of Granite City.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

Audit urges expenses for actual work

Recommendations that expense allowances for employees of the Metro-East Sanitary District be restricted to those for work actually performed, and that employees who receive automatic expense allowances, such as gasoline or supplies at the district garage, are contained in an audit of the district's financial condition during 1976.

The audit, conducted by the Bert H. Allison & Co., said, however, that the district's overall financial condition has improved substantially in the last four years. The 1976 audit was made separately for the period during which the former East Side Levee & Sanitary District was in operation, and for the period of the new Metro-East district.

Other recommendations in the new audit call for improved inventory procedures, an insurance register to more effectively control equipment, insurance claims, refunds and dividends, a purchasing encumbrance system and a better classification of expenses to show more clearly what the money is spent for.

Board members said that steps will be taken to comply with the recommendations.

Church burglary
A microphone, three speakers and a $50 check were stolen during a burglary at Mitchell First Baptist Church, 608 English Place, Mitchell, which was discovered Monday.

The burglars apparently were frightened away by a neighbor as they removed a window air conditioner from a north window, but did not take it. A vacuum cleaner also was moved to near the west door, but was left inside.

Entry was gained by prying off the facing around a window in the west front door and reaching through the window opening to unlock the door.

There were burned matches throughout the church, believed used for lighting. The office was ransacked and a padlock on a filing cabinet was broken.

TWO ARE INJURED
Tracy McIntyre, 17, and Leslie McIntyre, 14, both of 2649 Angela Drive, were injured in an auto accident early this week and were treated and released from St. Elizabeth Hospital. Both suffered neck pains and had x-rays taken.

DR. SEUSS WILL NEVER BE THE SAME. Story time is a big hit for children enrolled in the Early Childhood Center at SIUE. The young students, ages two-and-one-half to five years, enjoy embellishing the story as a Center staff member reads to them. The Childhood Center is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays during academic quarters at SIUE.

A little girl with an ice cream mustache, a memento from her third birthday party held earlier, is patiently standing beside the snakes' nursery-terrarium, trying to count the wriggly new arrivals.

As she does this, children are outside making cakes in the sandbox. Another group of children is reconstructing the busy day that was highlighted with a visit to a "lady down the street who has a peacock."

But this is only the tip of the iceberg, because other children are looking at books or quietly chatting with their teachers.

Some are being unobtrusively observed during their play by a speech and hearing expert from the university to determine if they have audiology problems. With all this activity under way, the Early Childhood Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville still maintains an air of orderliness and purpose. The purpose is to provide quality care for children, two-and-one-half to five years old, while providing a campus resource for teacher training, research and development.

The center is designed to serve the children of SIUE students. Most of the children have mothers who are returning to school, and some have fathers or both parents enrolled in classes.

The center is structured, without being static. Learning is creative, but not chaotic. Under the direction of Ruth Cook, associate professor and director of the Center, who holds a Ph.D. and two master's degrees, the Center serves 25 children in each morning and afternoon session, five days a week.

"This is a staff really excited about working with," Mrs. Cook said. "The enthusiasm of LaVerne Wilson, our head teacher, is an asset to our teacher training program." Along with Mrs. Wilson, the staff is composed of a full-time lead teacher and numerous education students from the university.

The Childhood Center has many advantages other than having an abundance of qualified teachers enrolled as university students.

"We are lucky here because our children can visit all over campus," she said. "Our students have 'thrown pots' at Wagner (the university art complex). The biology department loaned us our snake, the speech and hearing department comes out to do free speech and audiology tests, and even the dental school sends out dentists to do screening."

Along with the numerous services provided at the Center for a weekly tuition fee of about $10 a week, the Childhood Center's schedule is kept flexible to allow for changes in the university class schedule. "If a student-parent has final exams at 8 a.m., we are here in plenty of time for the parent to make it to class for the tests. We feel that university students should have top priority at the Center."

"Whatever room is left over in our classes is for the children of faculty and staff. Occasionally, we do make special exceptions to allow children from the community into the program. "We take any student's child who comes to enroll," Mrs. Cook said. "We have had some children with handicaps, even some with perceptual problems — hearing, speech and slow development. This means we really have a varied group. "But most of our children are talented," she added, "just by virtue of their being university children."

Not only does Mrs. Cook and her staff members feel they are blessed with having a center located on a university campus, the facilities also provide what is considered a good atmosphere.

"This building is small, but it is very home-like," she said as she gestured around the brick house which houses the center. "We have a big back yard for play, and plenty of areas in the house for group or individual playing and learning. "Unlike other centers located in towns, we have access to university vehicles for field trips off campus. And on campus, we have all sorts of places to visit," she said.

For instance, on Halloween, the children, all decked out in costumes, visited the science department so they could see what a real skeleton looks like. When the school day is over and parents begin coming by to pick up their children, another key aspect of the Center's philosophy, parent involvement, comes into play. A quarterly newsletter includes recipes that the child can help cook, art activities, and ideas for family field trips.

"A center like this where children are dropped off and picked up by the parents allows us to get to know the parents quite well," Mrs. Cook said. "Parents even tend to model their behavior towards their children after seeing how our teachers react to various situations."

This involvement means that not only do parents and their children benefit, but the Center reaps some benefits, also. A climber and all the curtains for the Center were done by parents, who hold bake sales and garage sales to raise money for special projects. Parents also have "workdays" to improve equipment at the center.

But the prime recipients of all the love and care are the children. As a little boy and girl play in the sandbox in the back yard, a speech therapist quietly observes them.

"What kind of cake are you baking?" a passerby asks the

"A cake," the little girl repeats as the speech therapist beams.

According to Mrs. Cook, only two weeks earlier, upon her enrollment, this little girl was thought to be severely delayed in language development. With her progress so far at the SIUE Early Childhood Center, the staff has high hopes that she may enter a regular classroom when she goes to public school.

FCC okays TV transfer

The Federal Communications Commission on Monday approved transfer of control of Flower City Television Corp., licensee of Station WOKR-TV, Rochester, N.Y., from its present owners to a subsidiary of Post Corporation.

Post agreed in April to purchase all the stock of Flower City for $15,850,000. The sale has been awaiting FCC approval, plus resolution of a six-year-old conflict between Flower City and two Rochester citizens' groups.

This conflict ended last week with agreement between Post Corporation and the citizens' groups governing minority employment, programming and other aspects of Post's planned operation of WOKR.

The agreement calls for the citizens' groups to withdraw their appeal challenging WOKR's 1972 and 1975 license renewals, which now is in the U.S. Court of Appeals of Washington, D.C., after being notified of the FCC's approval of the transfer.

WOKR-TV broadcasts on Channel 13 and is an ABC affiliate.

Flower City, owned by about 40 shareholders, most of whom are Rochester business and professional people, was granted the license in 1970 after the station had been operated for eight years by several groups competing for the license.

A spokesman for Post said another 40 days will pass before the sale is completed, to give the FCC decision the time to become final.

WOKR-TV will be Post's fifth VHF station, bringing it to the maximum number of VHF stations permitted any one owner by the FCC. Post is a broadcast and newspaper firm headquartered in Appleton, Wis., with operations in eight states.

Visitor, 13, hit by car on Madison

Sherry A. Strutton, 13, of Independence, Mo., visiting relatives on Iowa Street, was struck by an auto Monday in the 1700 block of Madison Avenue and was admitted at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Mrs. Patsy L. Bussone, 2221 Maryville Road, whose auto was northbound on Madison Avenue, said the girl ran in front of a tractor-trailer truck, also traveling north, and into the curb lane.

The driver applied the brakes but said she was unable to stop the vehicle in time to avoid hitting the girl, who got up from the pavement and ran from the scene.

Police located Sherry on Madison Avenue at 14th Street and she was taken by City Ambulance to the hospital. She sustained a cut to the right arm and pain in the left shoulder and had x-rays taken before being admitted.

OLD BANK — NEW LOOK. The former First National Bank in Madison building at 401 Madison Ave. is getting in vogue with the Alpine look. The office structure is the sixth building in Madison to adapt an Alpine theme, and there are several merchants "waiting their turn." The project, several years in the planning, is becoming a reality as business firms remodel. Within two years, city officials and Madison businessmen hope that the entire Madison business district will have an Alpine appearance.

Students with educational or relevant work experience can get course waivers in the prep block on the basis of undergraduate or graduate course work, or proficiency examinations.

Dean Werner said most MBA students can still get their degrees in two years. The first year, the student can take eight courses for a total of 32 hours credit. And in the second year, he or she can take the seven required courses for 28 hours of credit, and five electives for 20 hours of credit.

The new program calls for fewer required courses and more elective classes. "Our students can take all their electives in the area of their specialization or take all types of courses, with advanced work in more than one area," he said.

MBA specializations are in accounting, finance, economics, marketing, management information systems, production management, health care management, international business, manpower management and quantitative methods.

"We have been working on this revision since last fall," the dean said. "Someone currently enrolled in the MBA is still held to former degree requirements, so none of our students will lose anything under this program."

As a matter of fact, our students will be gaining."

Dean Werner said the School of Business is undergoing some other changes to meet the increased educational demands of students preparing for a competitive job market. Along with a new Management Information Systems Laboratory opening this fall for students to gain hands-on experience with computers, the school is also expanding its tutoring operation.

"Graduate assistants in all areas, primarily accounting and statistics, will be available to aid our undergraduate and graduate students," he said.

"We will also be getting a new academic advisor since Bob Schutzius, (formerly chief academic adviser for the School), will be our new director of student services. Dr. Schutzius will be over advisement, PEP (Professional Experience Program) and all student-related activities."

The dean said that the School of Business changes to meet the changing needs of the business world.

New approach in degree program on management

A revised master of business administration (MBA) degree program is scheduled to begin this fall at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

David J. Werner, dean of the School of Business, says the expanded program "will give students without business backgrounds better preparation for the demanding MBA program."

Students already in the program aren't affected by the new MBA requirements. "Primarily we are increasing the MBA program in length," Dean Werner said, "from 66 to 68 hours. The first year of study will make up for any lack of undergraduate preparation in business."

Formerly, the 18 hours of preparatory courses in our program were extremely concentrated," he explained. "We are now increasing the foundation course work from 18 to 22 hours."

The MBA program at SIUE has been popular with people from all backgrounds who wish to advance professionally, especially since it is offered at off-campus locations all over the country through a weekend format.

People who work during the day, particularly military personnel, have been attracted to spending approximately every third weekend in class rather than a night or two a week in class.

Since so many students with "non-business backgrounds are drawn to the program, a set of foundation courses was designed to provide preparation for the advanced graduate degree level work."

Degrees still useful--Shaw

(Dr. Kenneth A. Shaw, a native Granite Cityan, became president of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in January 1977. Raised in Edwardsville, he formerly was vice-president and dean of Towson State University in Baltimore.)

His numerous articles and papers—published in higher education journals and delivered at meetings of organizations concerned with higher education—have dealt with a broad range of issues pertinent to colleges and universities.

Recently, Dr. Shaw, in conjunction with two other professors at Towson State, received national attention for a paper they authored in opposition to Caroline Bird's book, "The Case Against College." In their paper, "The Case Against the Case Against College," they told future college students and parents why college is important. In this viewpoint, President Shaw expresses how he feels about students of all ages furthering their education.

By DR. KENNETH A. SHAW, President, SIUE

"Is it worth it?" More and more we hear this question being asked about the degree that comes from all the time, trouble and money invested in university education. With costs constantly going up and the job market wobbly, it's a serious question.

The days when everybody dreamed of having a college degree—whether they were able to make their dreams come true or not—are long gone.

Today we can hear a clamor that—far from being an asset—a degree is a useless decoration at best.

Some are even saying that going on with your formal education is definitely harmful. Naturally, I disagree with that viewpoint. You would hardly expect a university president to be downgrading the value of what his school is intended to do—so, in all honesty I want you to know of my positive biases so that you can put my comments into perspective.

My being honest with you is important. Maybe one of the reasons that people are doubtful about the value of going on with their education is that we have been promising more than the world is ready to deliver.

It's true that a college degree is no longer a gilt-edged guarantee of a good job, in fact, it never was. Nor does it automatically make you a better person.

There are some things you will have to do for yourself. Higher education gives you the skills and understanding to do them better.

Let me urge you to start thinking hard now about what a career at a university can do for you. You will be doing more than entering a larger social world than you have lived in up to now. You will be doing more than latching on to an occasional or permanent mate. Indeed, you will be doing more than enlarging your earning potential.

Make no mistake. Your economic situation is improved through advanced learning. You may not move right into exactly the job you want; but your prospects for getting a job you will like are better.

More important, you are much more likely to stay at work. Recent research indicated that 16-to-24-year-olds with an elementary school education were five times as likely to be unemployed, and high school graduates two and a half times as likely, as were college graduates in the same group.

By the time you enter middle age, your college education will have helped you to gain greater economic stability and better earning power.

The differences are not as great as they once were, but there is plenty of solid evidence that higher education is a blue-chip investment.

Still, there's something even more important you have to consider. As you mature, you are likely to change your long-range career goals. We know how rapidly the world is changing. As human beings grow in knowledge and experience, they change, too.

This means you can expect to change your career goals probably ten times before you decide to settle into a final groove, if indeed you ever do.

If that's the case, you might say, why not just get started and learn as you go?

If only it were that simple! Change demands suppleness of mind and strength of emotion. The challenges we will have to face demand a solid bedrock of moral and ethical values.

Decisions need this kind of basis, whatever direction they take. Before you can shape your future, you need a sense of past achievements—and mistakes—to measure it against.

To this point, we have only been talking about those things which build your personal integrity. You already know that human life involves dealing with your fellow human beings in a vast variety of ways.

In recent years, plenty of study and attention has been given to problems in human relations.

It would be safe to say that we know more about the problems than we do about the solutions. The basic areas that higher education deals with can be boiled down to three. First of all, there is the world of making a living and producing the goods our society needs to prosper and grow.

Secondly, there is the arena of ideas and experiences. They are the human treasure upon which no economic value can be put. But without them our lives are empty and worthless.

Finally, there is that vast horde of other people out there to whom we have to relate as decent and honorable persons.

Going on with your higher education will help you choose which of these three areas you want to zero in on as the basic concern of your life. Furthermore, it will make you recognize that you have to be aware of the fundamentals of the other two if you want to be a fully-rounded, truly happy citizen of a successful society.

Is that kind of achievement worth the effort? If that question doesn't answer itself in the affirmative, you have a lot of thinking to do.

Contrasting your education at a university drives you towards the really valuable human achievements. Find out for yourself. You'll decide it's well worth it.

Shannon Harnetiaux and James L. Elmore are wed

Urn holding arrangements of white, yellow and blue daisies and burning tapers in branched candelabra provided the setting at Calvary Baptist Church for the wedding on Aug. 6 of Miss Shannon L. Harnetiaux and James L. Elmore.

Preceding the service Judy Barnes presided at the piano and accompanied Kay Greenhill as she sang, "Sunrise, Sunset," "Annie's Song," "Wedding Prayer" and "Friendly Persuasion."

The bridal couple repeated vows in a double ring ceremony in the presence of the Rev. W. J. Richardson at 7:30 in the evening.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harnetiaux, 77 Maurene Court. The groom is a son of Mrs. Mary A. Elmore, 5025 Lewis Ave., and the late James "Pepper" Elmore.

A formal white tulle gown with a square neckline and long sheer puff sleeves and a-line skirt was worn by the bride.

Cluny and Venice lace edged the neckline and formed a V-design on the molded bodice and a narrow lace trim defined the crescent waistline.

Lace motifs were applied on the sleeves and skirt, which was encircled with a double flounce of organza and lace and extended into a cathedral train.

She wore a camelot lace hat to secure a cathedral length veil of white illusion bordered with Cluny lace. The bridal bouquet was an arrangement of white daisies, yellow roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Mary-Jo McKay served as matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Misses Robin and Phyllis Harnetiaux, sisters of the bride and Mrs. Miriam Hebert.

They were attired in formal length dresses created in an ivory fabric embellished with tiny blue flowers. An ivory lace trimmed the sleeves and necklines.

Woman university vice-president urges planning to achieve goals

A year-and-a-half ago, Rita Frijters decided to become a college vice-president before July 1977. Seventeen months later, following a nationwide search by a committee of university faculty, students and staff, she was recommended for and accepted the post of vice-president for business affairs at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Her duties here began this month. Dr. Frijters firmly believes in long-range planning. When she talks about careers for college students, the former dean of social sciences, humanistic studies and managerial sciences at Towson State University, Baltimore, stresses total-life plans.

She says people should develop life goals and make plans to achieve those goals.

Dr. Frijters believes total-life plans are essential for everyone, not just women who want to become senior executives.

"I would not like to stereotype women in any role," she explained, "since women are as different from each other as men are. There are some who will be executives and some who will be housewives."

"What constitutes success is a private matter. I believe in a total-life plan. Many homemakers are, totally happy with themselves and the role they have made for themselves."

"And there are men who forego promotions just for their families," she said. "I do not know what success means, but a total-life plan should bring success in both professional and personal life."

Dr. Frijters chose a career in education — she was a senior systems engineer for Remington Rand Corp. before going to Towson State because she feels women have more opportunities in education.

A native of Holland, she left Europe and became a U.S. citizen in 1969 because women in advanced positions were "barely tolerated" in Europe and she could not see any potential for growth there.

"I found it was easier to grow in the U.S. up to a certain level. Without my doctoral degree (in economics from the Netherlands School of Management), it would have been difficult to break into the rather conservative upper echelons of business in the early 1960s."

"Since I did have a doctoral title, I was hired because of that title," she said.

Frijters, whose business experience includes being a senior consultant for John Diebold and Associates in New York and other research and consultant positions, said there were some surprises when a woman showed up to advise businesses.

"When the company would call, the consulting firm would say, 'We are sending Dr. Frijters. Then I would arrive and it was obvious that the company did not know a woman was coming.'"

"I had some amazing encounters that way. It never crossed their minds that a woman would be a management consultant."

backgrounds in business are finding that job opportunities are opening up and some companies are actively recruiting women business executives, she said women are still working with a disadvantage.

"A woman is more subject to criticism when she stands out in an unusual position," she said. "You are watched much more carefully because of the unusual position you are in. I am sure that also holds true for minority persons."

Women need the best qualifications to be accepted in the business and academic world in leadership positions, she has concluded. She said that education is important but said that education means much more than career training.

"Education is one of the best experiences in life. I thought when I was a student that I had a very rough time. But looking back at it, I think it was the greatest experience in my life."

"Regardless of the financial payoff, I would urge anybody to go to college."

"Personal and professional success may mean changing schools many times during a lifetime."

"I have started over about six or seven times," she said. "Once you are good at something, you start looking for new challenges."

Does she enjoy being a vice-president? "Yes. This is a great school with an enormous potential. I also have great respect for President Shaw. I identify with his leadership style and the goals he sets."

As a person who sets goals and then makes a plan to succeed in achieving those goals, she has definite ideas about how to achieve success.

"I do not believe that success comes by luck. Success comes from planning, plain hard work, self-criticism and keeping in sight the relativity of everything."

"There are paths you have to set out," she explained. "I still have a long-range plan although I have to prove that I can be a success as vice-president."

"Women should decide where and what they want to be three or five years from now, what they will do if their husbands die or become unemployed, if they decide on career changes for themselves, or when their kids leave home."

"Many women say, 'I will think about that when it happens.' That is not a life plan. That is dependency on other persons' life plans."

Algebra anxiety, "mathophobia" and geometry jitters are proving to be major stumbling blocks for women college students hoping to pursue careers in business or technical fields, she has observed.

Since business and industry are actively recruiting women in record numbers for executive positions, more and more college women are opting for mathematics and science courses to get the skills they need for these careers.

She admits that "mathophobia" is a problem for many women and says the blame shouldn't be placed on women but on the society they grew up in.

Dr. Frijters has excelled in an area usually reserved for men. She not only has taught business administration and served as dean of social sciences, humanistic studies and managerial sciences, but also has worked as a computer specialist and consultant for various companies.

"When I was growing up, girls weren't supposed to be math wizards, engineers or business executives."

"We were stereotyped into our roles. We were good in social sciences but were not good in math."

"Having taught managerial sciences — she was a professor of business administration at Towson State — I found that, in general, the girls in my accounting and managerial sciences courses were brighter than the boys."

"Of course, this was a pre-selected group, since generally more boys than girls go to college."

She agrees with national surveys showing that girls were not encouraged to excel in mathematics at the elementary and secondary school levels, she said that this trend seems to be changing today.

This is an automatic reaction to seeing a wider range of career opportunities," the SIUE vice-president said. "If you never thought of yourself as being a business executive, an engineer, etc., why take math?"

"I think stereotyped roles determined in the past what subject girls took in school. Poor is healthy! Money or job troubles! Unhappy? If you have any of these problems — Then see Madam Bishop today & be of them tomorrow!"

"As soon as new fields open up, girls will automatically take the math and technical subjects," she said.

However, male students may still have an edge over their female counterparts. "There is a definite separation of information networks," Dr. Frijters said. "In the lower grades, boys and girls do not talk to each other very much."

When they do talk to each other in the upper grades, it certainly isn't a discussion about career goals," she said with a grin.

"When males talk about what they want to be when they grow up, it is with their male peers."

So, unfortunately, many girls never get to discuss job opportunities and careers other than the stereotyped women's roles."

Gitcho-Dooley wedding at St. Elizabeth Church

Miss Patricia Ann Dooley, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. Dooley, 2534 Ivy Lane, and Jan Gitcho, a son of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Gitcho, 9 Shurwin Drive, exchanged wedding vows on Aug. 12 at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church.

Father Kenneth Becker officiated at the double ring ceremony at 7:30 in the evening. Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a full length white Qiana gown designed with a sleeveless Empire bodice featuring a high neckline enhanced with a floral Venice lace trim.

Her full skirt was bordered with matching lace and fell softly into a chapel train. A lace camelot headpiece secured her lace bordered veil of bridal illusion and she held a white fan festooned with an orchid and pom poms.

Honor attendant was Mary Balcer, a sister of the bride and the bridesmaids included Kathy Skillman, Judy Johnson, Nancy Halvach, Darice Palmer, Marga Flockmeier.

They were gown in identical spray green dresses fashioned in a Grecian style with Empire bodices and flowing skirts.

Each attendant held a white fan with a cluster of multi-color daisies attached. Elizabeth Halvach was the flower girl. She wore a short green dotted swiss frock created with a white organza pinafore and she carried a basket of variegated daisies.

Chris Balcer served as the ringbearer. The groom chose his brother, Hal Gitcho as his best man. Groomsmen were Tom Miller, Terry Hendricks, Louis Miller, Gary Oxford and Bruce Ellis.

Seating the guests were Danny and Marly Dooley, brothers of the bride. The newly married couple received guests at a reception held at the Croatian Home following the service. A rehearsal dinner was served to the bridal party and their families at Tony's Restaurant.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans and Florida they will reside in Granite City. A graduate of St. Teresa's Academy, the bride also graduated from Eastern Illinois University with a degree in special education. She is a member of Delta Zeta Sorority and will teach at St. Elizabeth Catholic School this fall.

The groom is a graduate of Granite City High School South. He attended Southern Illinois University, Carbondale and SIUE where he graduated with a degree in business administration. He is co-owner of Corral Liquors, Inc.

Acceptable remedy sought to cleanse runoff to waterways

Guest comment by the Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission — On Oct. 18, 1972, Congress passed Public Law 92-500, the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments, Section 208 of this Act requires that:

By 1983, the rivers and streams of our nation be fishable, swimmable and able to support wildlife. By 1985, the discharge of pollutants into our nation's waterways be eliminated.

This Commission has been designated by the governor of Illinois to study and develop a plan which will improve the quality of the waters of Monroe, St. Clair and Madison Counties. Section 208 requires that the final plan provide for:

- (1) The control of point source pollutants — Water-borne pollutants which flush from factories, municipal sewage systems and other sources at specific locations through sewer pipes, culverts, artificial channels or other man-made conveyances.
- (2) The control of non-point source pollutants — Water-borne pollutants which flow off the land after rainfalls. Examples include urban stormwater runoff, erosion from construction sites and agricultural lands, runoff from strip-mined areas and runoff from septic systems.
- (3) The development of a management system which will assure implementation of and compliance with the plan; and
- (4) The establishment of a continuing planning process (annual plan review and revision).

Given these responsibilities and authorities of Section 208, it is important to understand two further points about the program.

First, while 208 is not a land use program, it does have definite relationships to land use.

Water quality is affected, often very significantly, by land use decisions. As a result, land use issues can be expected to receive attention in the plan.

Second, it is not a federal program. The critical element is local government and the people and interests which it represents. These are the officials who must make certain the 208 program is relevant to their problems and useful in providing solutions.

There are presently 50 major industrial dischargers in the study area. A major discharger has been identified by SIRMPC as an industry which discharges 50,000 gallons of wastewater per day on any given day of the year.

Fifteen of these industries discharge into internal streams of the Mississippi River while the remaining discharge into municipal treatment facilities. It has been estimated that in 1975 these major industries generated 36 million gallons of wastewater per day.

It is estimated that 85 per cent of the population in Madison, St. Clair and Monroe Counties is being served. This means that approximately 40 million gallons of domestic sewage are being produced and treated daily. With the expected increase in population, domestic waste will average an additional 10 million gallons per day in 1995.

Treatment of municipal and industrial wastewater and treatment of public water supplies involves the generation of a residual commonly called sludge. Sludge is basically the solid material in wastewater.

The biggest problem associated with sludge, and indeed one of the major issues of the nation's environmental protection agencies are concerned with, is the environmentally safe and most economically feasible method of disposing of the large amounts of sludge produced daily.

Mining activities can cause severe water pollution problems. Drainage from mined areas can contain considerable amounts of acids and metals. In the Greater Egypt Regional Planning and Development Commission's 208 region (in Southern Illinois), mined areas have been found to cause severe water pollution.

In this 208 region, there are a number of inactive mines cited as either causing water pollution or having the potential for causing water pollution.

There are 19 inactive mine sites throughout the Madison-St. Clair County area. Of these, nine (47 per cent) show positive visual evidence of acidic water pollution occurring from mining refuse material. The remaining 10 sites contain refuse material which could potentially cause stream pollution, but because they are located a substantial distance from any stream the immediate danger of water pollution does not exist at this time.

Water quality sampling indicates a high natural alkalinity in area streams. This high alkalinity is apparently neutralizing the acid produced from refuse areas.

Thus, acid drainage from inactive mines in this 208 area results in stream pollution only in the immediate vicinity of the mined area itself. Bright orange discoloration in stream beds and along banks, however, can extend several miles downstream from the mined area. Mining activities associated with agriculture and construction activities contribute tremendous amounts of sediment to the waters of the region.

Erosion rates in an agricultural area range from less than five to as much as 400 tons per acre per year. Land use management directly affects the rate of erosion. Sediment is a water pollutant as well as a carrier for biological and chemical pollutants.

The trend in the region is toward more land being used for row crops. This will result in greater amounts of sediment being produced. Greater amounts of fertilizer (which contain nitrogen, phosphorus and potash) and pesticides will be used, which affect the water quality.

Currently there are 1,362,000 acres of agricultural land being used in the study area; of this, 428,500 acres (31 per cent) are being used for row crops, i.e., corn, soybeans.

Livestock wastes can be a major source of water pollution in rural areas. Runoff from feeding areas and barnyards may contaminate water supplies, destroy fish and other aquatic life and generally degrade water quality. 78 per cent of the land in Madison, St. Clair and Monroe Counties is used for agricultural or silvicultural purposes, and there are more than 427,000 animals raised annually.

Few of the livestock operations are large, centralized feedlots. Most are small barnyard feeding operations involving less than 100 head of cattle. The runoff from these lots contains high concentrations of bacteria and nutrients which lower the level of oxygen in the water and cause pollution.

Urban areas contribute substantial amounts of organic, nutrient and suspended sediment pollution through stormwater runoff. Various studies have investigated the effects and, in some areas, urban runoff was a major source of pollution.

Land use activities directly affect the quality of the runoff, with commercial and industrial areas contributing more pollutants than residential areas.

The stormwater problem is increased when community has a combined sewer system. Increased volumes of stormwater overload sewer lines, causing significant amounts of combined sewage to escape through overflows and enter the nearest stream.

Local governments must bear considerable responsibility for the direction and outcome of 208 Clean Water Act efforts. They will also be responsible for devising a system for continuing financing of the program.

Their individual actions — passage of ordinances, zoning laws, institution of drainage design standards and street sweeping routines, for example — will, in many areas, be critical to implementation of the plan. Local governments may assume significant portions of management agency responsibility.

These responsibilities necessitate involvement of the local governments — and the individuals and interest groups they represent — from the earliest stages of plan development.

As part of the 208 designation process, resolutions are obtained from local governments demonstrating their intention to develop and implement an areawide plan. This represents just one of several effective methods of focusing attention of local governments on their responsibilities for the program's success.

The major responsibility of the 208 Policy Committee is to determine policy in the areas such as study goals and objectives, political and policy considerations, desired land use-water quality relationships, general plan development, review and adoption and implementation of plan recommendations.

This committee includes the elected representatives of those local governments that have signed resolutions of intent to participate in the 208 program, and also includes the officers of the three county Soil and Water Conservation Districts in the 208 area.

The 208 Policy Steering Committee was established by action of the Policy Committee in July 1976. The function of this committee is to assist the 208 planning staff and the Policy Committee in developing the 208 management plan, and to assure that the technical solutions developed are politically acceptable and implementable.

We've been saving—criminals being freed too quickly in county

Commentary by Gary Schneider, Press-Record regional editor

Thank heavens someone else has said what the Press-Record has been saying for several years — that criminals in Madison County are being turned free almost as quickly as they are caught committing felonies.

A report released last week by a consulting firm for the Southern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission (SILEC) has noted that during 1975, only 5.2 per cent of felony dispositions were accomplished by trial.

The great majority of the cases were settled by plea bargaining — offering a lesser charge or light sentence in return for a guilty plea — or by the dismissal of charges.

Dismissal ended 66.4 per cent of felony cases that year, the report shows.

Although there are numerous reasons for this, including serious shortages of manpower and funds in the state's attorney's office and in the courts, the result has been disastrous for peace-loving Madison County residents.

Of those who plead guilty to felony crimes, the vast majority are being freed on probation, sometimes linked with short periods in the Madison County Jail or with fines.

The end result is that many known felons spend most of the time, from the moment they are caught until they have fulfilled their court-ordered obligation, on the streets.

To persons who deal daily with the results of crimes and actions taken by the courts, the compounding of the problem becomes more and more obvious.

Any police officer can testify to arresting the same people, over and over, only to see them on the streets the next day.

In March 1976, the Press-Record featured an article about a young man who had been arrested for seven alleged felonies in a one-year period and was still on the streets.

The article caused what might be termed "a storm of controversy."

County officials offered explanations; changes in the means of investigating past criminal histories prior to sentencing were promised; law enforcement officers' praised the article, and civic leaders objected to "adverse publicity" harming the image of this area.

Some urged news media to reflect a more positive image of the county, and Chief Circuit Judge Harold Clark said he did not feel criticism of the county's processing of felons was justified, since judges could not sentence many criminals to prison because the state's prisons are overcrowded.

Judge Clark also defended a "first felony free" rule, which nearly guarantees a young man his first offense, including burglary, saying he did not feel it was proper to throw a young man into jail for six months in St. Charles, a rugged juvenile correctional institution.

He said the boy would not be advertising material is zoned. In addition, again for the first time, the Madison County Service is now seeking to impose a surcharge in the amount of two-cents per copy for all publications for advertising space or "red-tag" delivery. Coupled with these rate increases, the Madison County Service's plan to further reduce basic services.

We all know of the plan to eliminate Saturday delivery of mail by early next year. Even more frightening is the section of the new rate filing in which the Madison County Service tells how much money it could save by going to three-day delivery.

What another plan calls for the slowing of overnight processing of mail — the peak period of mail volume — to save money. Overnight delivery could become yet another relic of the past.

The rush to disaster has been even the Madison County Service's decision last December of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington which endorsed the Postal Service's "business" posture, and ordered the earliest possible implementation of a totally cost-based rate system, with no consideration of public policy or market factors permitted.

What has gone wrong? What has happened to the centuries-old concept of the postal service as a public service, an institution existing to serve the fundamental needs of the nation and its people?

What has happened to the unique and universally accessible communications network which promoted and disseminated news and information throughout this huge and diverse land?

Blame can be laid at many doorsteps. But the fundamental problem is this: In its belt-and-hoopes rush to fulfill the "self-supporting" mandate given it by the Postal Reorganization Act, the Postal Service has totally forsaken its fundamental service mission.

With all public service appropriations, the Congress did to come in just a few more years, and with the Court of Appeals decision prodding it down the self-supporting road, perhaps the Postal Service should not be condemned for its actions.

No matter who is to blame, one fact is clear: Unless something is done — and done quickly — total ruin of America's two-centuries-old postal system is inevitable.

Perhaps a "self-supporting" shell of a system will remain; but the system which has served the personal, social, economic and political needs of the nation and its people so well, for so long, will be gone forever.

What can be done? In our opinion, change must be grounded upon the recognition of the one fundamental principle: The Postal Service is a public service.

Flowing from this are three basic needs:

1. Appropriations from the public treasury must be increased to maintain the basic system and ensure continuation of adequate public services.

2. The Court of Appeals decision must be overturned, to ensure that postal rates are not merely the product of cost accounting techniques, but also of public policy judgments and realistic market factors.

3. The Postal Service must be restored to public accountability. The old, political postal system will never be restored, but Congress and the President should have a role in setting postal policy, which is so likely to try burglary again and would want his friends what would happen if they were caught.

Such punishment for juvenile offenders is debatable. It represents nearly the opposite end of the scale from the current "first felony free" idea.

Perhaps true justice can be found somewhere between these extremes.

Capt. Condis also said in an interview with the Press-Record that he cannot understand why courts start thinking of the minimum sentence for a felon and then increase if there is a good reason.

He contends the courts should start at the maximum sentence provided by law and then should decrease it only for good reason.

Judges say prisons are too crowded to give maximum sentences, adding that parole boards are the problem, and that prisoners free in a short time, anyway.

What the judges sometimes fail to see, some contend, is that their job is not to see that the persons do not become too crowded.

Their job is to determine a fair and just sentence for a criminal, based upon his crime and his past record, and to pronounce a sentence designed to rehabilitate the criminal and protect the general population against being victimized by the same person in the near future.

The Department of Corrections should not ask judges to bear the burden of keeping prisons from becoming overcrowded. That is not the judges' job.

There is no easy answer to keeping the dangerous and repeat felon off the streets with inadequate prison facilities, but the parole board should bear the responsibility of determining who should be freed and when.

Persons convicted of armed robbery and sentenced to lengthy prison terms five years or more now back on the streets in this area and their names are beginning to reappear on police blotters.

Even if the Department of Corrections is unable to carry out every sentence completely, once more just sentences is the job of every judge. And such sentences may serve to discourage others from committing the same crime in the future.

Governor James Thompson's plan to build two new prisons in the state may be a partial answer to the problem, and we agree with the recommendations in the SILEC report that the state's attorney's office, the courts and the Madison County Sheriff's Department be considered for more funds.

With a bigger budget, there could be an adequate number of persons to deal with criminals once they are caught — and to bring them to sentencing with a minimum number of "deals," dismissals and reductions in the charges.

Death knell for traditional postal system?

(National Newspaper Association)

For 200 years the nation's postal system has served this complex, diverse nation in many and varied ways. It has played a vital role in building America, and an equally vital role in building America's free press.

It has been regarded from the earliest days of the republic as one of the most basic and necessary services a nation can provide its people. A unique communications network binding America and Americans together, in the words of George Washington, "in a chain which can never be broken."

The unbreakable chain is breaking. The Postal Reorganization Act which put the "corporate" Postal Service into being in 1970 has been an unmitigated disaster for America's mail system.

Rates for all classes of mail have skyrocketed, services have been slashed, and the deficits for the "business-like" postal corporation are now counted in the billions of dollars. Only emergency appropriations from Congress have saved the Postal Service from completely going under.

The situation is becoming increasingly grim for the subscribers and the subscribers who rely heavily on the mails for delivery of their newspapers and magazines. Second-class postal rates have already risen over 500 per cent in the last five years.

The Postal Service has filed a formal request to raise rates by another 30 per cent over this already inflated level.

At the first time, the Postal Service is now seeking to abolish the traditional uniform rate for editorial matter, and "zone" it just as the rate for advertising material is zoned. In addition, again for the first time, the Madison County Service is now seeking to impose a surcharge in the amount of two-cents per copy for all publications for advertising space or "red-tag" delivery. Coupled with these rate increases, the Madison County Service's plan to further reduce basic services.

We all know of the plan to eliminate Saturday delivery of mail by early next year. Even more frightening is the section of the new rate filing in which the Madison County Service tells how much money it could save by going to three-day delivery.

What another plan calls for the slowing of overnight processing of mail — the peak period of mail volume — to save money. Overnight delivery could become yet another relic of the past.

The rush to disaster has been even the Madison County Service's decision last December of the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington which endorsed the Postal Service's "business" posture, and ordered the earliest possible implementation of a totally cost-based rate system, with no consideration of public policy or market factors permitted.

What has gone wrong? What has happened to the centuries-old concept of the postal service as a public service, an institution existing to serve the fundamental needs of the nation and its people?

What has happened to the unique and universally accessible communications network which promoted and disseminated news and information throughout this huge and diverse land?

Blame can be laid at many doorsteps. But the fundamental problem is this: In its belt-and-hoopes rush to fulfill the "self-supporting" mandate given it by the Postal Reorganization Act, the Postal Service has totally forsaken its fundamental service mission.

With all public service appropriations, the Congress did to come in just a few more years, and with the Court of Appeals decision prodding it down the self-supporting road, perhaps the Postal Service should not be condemned for its actions.

No matter who is to blame, one fact is clear: Unless something is done — and done quickly — total ruin of America's two-centuries-old postal system is inevitable.

Perhaps a "self-supporting" shell of a system will remain; but the system which has served the personal, social, economic and political needs of the nation and its people so well, for so long, will be gone forever.

What can be done? In our opinion, change must be grounded upon the recognition of the one fundamental principle: The Postal Service is a public service.

Flowing from this are three basic needs:

1. Appropriations from the public treasury must be increased to maintain the basic system and ensure continuation of adequate public services.

2. The Court of Appeals decision must be overturned, to ensure that postal rates are not merely the product of cost accounting techniques, but also of public policy judgments and realistic market factors.

3. The Postal Service must be restored to public accountability. The old, political postal system will never be restored, but Congress and the President should have a role in setting postal policy, which is so closely interrelated with public policy. Congress should have some say in major rate and service matters, and the President should have some mechanism for input into basic management of the postal system.

These goals are attainable. There is a bill pending in the House of Representatives which would achieve these objectives and restore the postal system to its rightful role in our society.

The bill is HR 7700, sponsored by Representatives James H. Wadsworth (D-N.Y.) and Charles H. Wilson (D-Calif.). HR 7700 would overturn the Court of Appeals decision, increase public service appropriations to an amount equal to 15 per cent of annual Postal Service expenditures, give to Congress veto power over Postal Rate Commission decisions, and restore to the President the power to appoint the postmaster general.

Until the last few days, it appeared HR 7700 would be passed by the House this year. The bill has generated broad support from all quarters in the House, because of its obvious merit and its obvious necessity.

Now, however, it appears it may be lost, and the Postal Service will be permitted to continue down the road to disaster. Which brings us to the central point of this statement.

For the past several weeks, the Carter Administration has been circulating its postal policy. Now, it is ready to speak.

On Sept. 8, Management and Budget Director Bert Lance will testify on HR 7700. And, according to published reports, at the present time he plans to oppose 7700. This, effectively, will kill the bill.

The President's basic posture on postal policy — despite the grim facts we have outlined — appears to be "business as usual."

Three days before his election, then-candidate Jimmy Carter issued a statement calling for the restoration of the public service character of the Postal Service.

He advocated abolition of the Postal Rate Commission, and said he wanted the power to appoint the postmaster general. President Carter, it now appears, has done a complete about-face.

According to reports, the President plans to oppose any increase in public service appropriations for the Postal Service, evidently because of his desire to rebalance the federal budget by 1981.

He also will oppose any move to give him the power to appoint the PMG, evidently for political reasons, because power means responsibility, and responsibility means potential blame.

The President's only substantive proposal, evidently, will be the extremely controversial "citizens' rate" first-class stamp — a proposal which has already generated a massive volume of charges that it is nothing more than transparent political gimmickry.

In our opinion, announcement of the President's "status quo" policy would be the death knell for the traditional American postal system.

In final, the abandonment of the concept that the Postal Service is a public service.

Once the Administration "goes public" with its policy on Sept. 8, there will be no turning back. In our view, the President must be convinced within the next three weeks to change his mind and take a broader look at the ramifications of his intended policy, if the postal public service concept is to survive.

Another breakthrough today in development of local port

Announcement today of a $1,700,000 fertilizer storage and distribution complex is another big step forward for the Tri-City Regional Port District, which earlier this year began construction of a $2,750,000 river terminal for grain and grain products.

Total construction activity involving new port facilities could reach $5 million during the next year, Port Board President John N. Bellico and General Manager Carl A. Ranft estimate.

Fertilizer to be shipped through the Tri-City Port will be from both foreign and domestic producers. Imports will originate in Russia and Canada, and distribution from this community will be to points in Missouri and Illinois.

Such shipping expansions here result in job opportunities and economic growth, and they continue a positive pattern that is likely to receive still another boost soon through designation of a Tri-City Port foreign trade zone to serve the St. Louis metropolitan area.

Federal funds to Venice schools enhance learning

Venice Community Unit School District Three has been awarded funds by the federal government for 1977-78 to operate the Basic (Local Education Agency) and Pilot Programs, according to Mrs. Althea A. Cress, director.

The Emergency School Aid Act was signed into law on June 23, 1972, as Title VII of the Educational Amendments of 1972 (Public Law 92-318).

The essence of this law was to grant federal aid to school districts eliminating, reducing or preventing minority group isolation and promoting integration.

It is administered by the United States Department of Health, Education and Welfare through the Office of Education.

The Basic Program has the following components:

1. To promote the facts concerning the "war of work" through an effective career education program.
2. To increase the knowledge of target minority and non-minority students in social studies and science.
3. To provide in-service training for staff members to improve communication and human relations regarding understanding, in order to produce an increased amount of home-school interaction.

The Pilot has the following components:

1. To raise the reading achievement level of target students in the Venice schools.
2. To increase the mathematics achievement level of the target students in the Venice schools.
3. To encourage target minority and non-minority students to improve attendance in school in order to prevent a possible decline in their achievement level which could cause them to become dropouts.

Instructors in the reading program are Miss Barbara Bailey, Mrs. Rogers Mefford, Miss Mary Donna Scaturro, Mrs. Mary Shaw, Miss Ruth Welch and Mrs. Betty Cunningham, Title I.

Assigned to the mathematics program are Al J. Delay, Mrs. Margaret McGarrahan, Robert McKinney and Robert Blattner, coordinator of Title I.

"These programs will certainly be beneficial to the district," Mrs. Cress comments.

"Project MICRO staff in cooperation with other Venice school district personnel will strive to provide worthwhile and profitable experiences for the district students."

Miss Myrtle DeLoach, parent counselor, Mrs. Georgia Falwell, counselor and career specialist, and Raymond Meosby, home-school coordinator, will deal with career

Weekend classes for government students

Government students at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville can now take some of their courses on weekends.

James R. Kerr, chairman of the SIUE Department of Government and Public Affairs, reports that some classes for advanced undergraduate students and graduate students in the department will be taught from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays, three different weekends during each SIUE academic quarter.

A survey of government

students showed there is a need for on-campus weekend format courses, he noted.

"This is a format we have used in our Washington, D.C., off-campus graduate program since about 1970," Kerr said.

Weekend format classes have also proven popular in the off-campus master of business administration program.

Military personnel and others who work during the day are attracted to weekend classes so they don't have to spend their evenings in class.

"We are committed to this format on our campus," Kerr added, "since a student can finish a graduate degree in government in two years just by taking classes on weekends."

To receive a master's degree in government, students take two, four-hour courses per quarter. They can also take courses during the evening and can have some variety in their class scheduling.

Beginning with the fall quarter, Sept. 27, government students can take Intergovernmental Relations, taught by Professor Daniel McHargue and/or Organization Theory and Public Administration, taught by Assistant Professor Dennis W. Hostetter. The department's phone number is 692-3572.

Courses in writing

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will offer a variety of writing courses during the fall quarter, aimed at improving writing skills and tackling all sorts of writing problems.

"If there is a writing problem out there, I think we have a course to take care of it," Betty Richardson, associate professor of English language and literature, said.

From a total of 33 sections of freshman composition (GSK 101 and GSK 102), which provides practical and efficient training in the shorter forms of writing — sentence composition, paragraphs and short essays — 12 sections of English composition will be devoted to developmental English.

Two sections will be offered for mature students returning to college after "stopping out," and a special section will be geared to international students attending the University who are studying English as a second language.

Fundamentals of the English Language (ENG 301) is a refresher course, providing upper division students with a review of modern grammar along with exercises in advanced composition.

Recommended for students in all disciplines, this course is considered especially helpful for education and mass communications majors.

"Teachers and journalists are tied to the English language in a far more demanding way than are many other professionals," Dan Havens, chairman of the department of English language and literature, said.

The teacher may want to understand for personal satisfaction the rules underlying some complex grammatical structure in English and, at the same time, be able to guide elementary students toward some kind of standard of language usage, he said.

"The journalist, on the other hand, is also a model whose work is read by many and whose perfection of style and consistent use of standard forms are facts," Havens said.

Two courses will be offered in creative writing (ENG 302a and ENG 302b) during the fall quarter. The fiction seminar (ENG 302a) involves some reading, writing exercises and a short story.

Stressing a rhetorical approach to fiction, the course will examine plot, point of view, techniques of description, dialogue, scenic development, and narration. Students will also discuss symbolism and the various types of fiction.

The poetry seminar (ENG 302b) stresses basic techniques, including imagery, unity of meaning, figures of speech, patterns of rhyme and rhythm. According to Lloyd Kropp, noted novelist who will be teaching the courses, both seminars are open to people who have a special flair for writing, as well as those who just want to try their hand at something creative.

Technical Writing for the Mature Scientist (ENG 410) will be offered as part of the Science Career Facilitation Project provided by the Department of Chemistry for updating the marketable skills of mid-career women scientists. The course will begin with a review of basic writing skills and then progress to effective writing of resumes and abstracts. Students will spend much of their time preparing reports that transmit technical information clearly and concisely to various professional audiences.

Advanced Composition ENG 400 is aimed at students interested in non-fictional writing at the professional level, either for publication or for expanding their own capabilities in their profession or trade.

Assignments will be flexible and adapted to the individual needs of each student. According to Robert Duncan, professor of English language and literature, the course should not be confused with courses in technical or fiction writing.

The style of writing will be modern informal, with the goal of improving clarity, readability and interest. Assistance in preparation of material for publication will be offered to those who have such interests.

Additional information on writing courses offered this fall by the university may be obtained by Quad-Cityans by contacting the Department of English Language and Literature at 692-2060.

Beginner income tax instruction

By RON CORNWELL, County Agriculture Advisor

A five-day workshop for persons with little or no experience in preparing income tax returns for others is scheduled for Oct. 19, 21, 24, 26 and 28.

The program will be taught over the University of Illinois teletext system. The nearest location for Madison County residents will be Belleville. The workshop will deal with preparation of nonfarm small business, farm and state returns.

Each person attending will receive a specially-prepared workbook containing copies of tax forms, problems, examples and helpful information.

Instructors for the workshop will be from the University of Illinois College of Agriculture and the Internal Revenue Service. Classes start at 9 a.m. and finish at 4:30 p.m. each day. There is a $30 enrollment fee which covers the cost of materials and workshops used in the workshop.

The deadline for enrolling is Sept. 9.

August and early September is the time White Snakeroot can be a problem in wooded pastures in Madison County.

White Snakeroot is the most common plant poisonous to livestock in Madison County. It thrives in shaded areas.

Cattle and other livestock usually will not eat snakeroot or other weedy plants unless there is little other vegetation available.

If your livestock have access to a wooded pasture, check the area for White Snakeroot. Cattle, sheep and horses can be affected.

Snakeroot seems to be a greater problem with horses than either cattle or sheep.

White Snakeroot is an erect, branched, fibrous rooted perennial plant that ranges from one to five feet tall.

The plant has white flowers that appear in August. The leaves of the plant have three prominent veins originating from the base.

The best control is to eliminate the brush from the pasture and return the pasture to a sunny open area. If that is not possible, then weed killers can be used. A heavy application of 2,4-D in the spring when this weed is six to eight inches tall will eliminate the top growth as well as much of the root system.

Occasionally, some regrowth will require treatment later in the season. Treating in the late summer after the white blossoms appear will be less effective than early spring treatment.

Farmers in Madison County should be watching their fields for fall armyworm damage. The insects are brown-to-dull green, smooth-skinned worms that feed in the whorl, giving the leaves a ragged appearance as they emerge.

In most cases, the plants recover. The damage, however, is another stress on the developing corn plant and it may be worth it to use chemical control.

Control is warranted if 20 percent or more of the plants are infested and worms are still present.

Apply 1 1/2 pounds of carbaryl (Sevin), a pound of diazinon, a pound of trichlorfon (Dylox) or 1 1/2 pounds of toxaphene per acre. Apply it over the row, directly into the whorl.

The sprays are effective on smaller worms, but granules do a better job on the larger ones. Diazinon, Sevin and toxaphene are also formulated as granules.

Control may not be worth it, if the worms are mature (an inch or more long), because they have already completed most of the damage.

Timothy Woodmore, 17, of 634 Lincoln Ave., Venice, and a 16-year-old companion were arrested by Venice police at 11:30 p.m. Monday and charged with unlawful assembly.

Police said the boys were booked after they had failed to obey an earlier warning to stop drinking beer in an auto parked on the Tri-City Grocery lot at 407 Broadway, Venice.

Officers said they found the boys parked in the lot with a beer can sitting on the trunk of the car at 10:30 p.m., and the boys were told to leave. An hour later, police said, they found the boys still there.

Woodmore was released on $35 cash bond and the juvenile was released to his father.

doctor of science will be awarded to Mrs. Henriette D. Avram of Washington, D. C., director of the Network Development Office of the Library of Congress. The distinguished service award will be given to Mrs. Ann Zimmerman of Chicago, executive administrator of the Illinois Nurses Association and president of the American Nurses' Association.

Both women have made contributions to the field of education. Mrs. Avram is being honored for her contributions to information retrieval and availability which have brought about sweeping changes in the field of library automation.

Mrs. Zimmerman is being recognized for her "compassion toward humanity, her unwavering professionalism, and her effective leadership in the cause of nursing at the state, national and international levels."

A reception in honor of the new SIUC graduates will be held at the site immediately following the program. Parents and friends of the candidates are being invited to attend. In the event of inclement weather, the starting time will be the same, but the commencement program activities will be decentralized, with ceremonies at several indoor locations.

Robert Bruker, chairman of the commencement arrangements committee, said that if the program is decentralized, the reception will be held in the Goshen Lounge of the University Center following the ceremonies.

Should a decision be made to hold the commencement indoors, the announcement will be made on campus radio stations after 5 p.m. Sept. 1. Information may also be obtained by telephoning 692-2000 or 692-2739.

Beefalo

(NOT BUFFALO)

BEFALO IS PROCESSED UNDER U.S. GOV'T INSPECTION JUST LIKE BEEF

IS A CROSS BETWEEN BUFFALO AND BEEF

Beefalo offers you a unique taste experience. Beefalo has the taste of delicious, full flavored beef. Nutritionally, beefalo has the same high protein, but low in fat and cholesterol. While most U.S. Choice beef is 10 to 12% protein, beefalo is 18 to 20% protein. U.S. Choice beef contains about 25% fat, but beefalo (a friend of calorie counters) has only 5 to 6% fat. Cook beefalo as you would prepare similar cuts of lean beef, but beefalo cooks about 25% faster than beef.
